SUPREME COURT DECLARES COOK GREATER PITTSBURGH BILL IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Justices Place a Sprag in the Wheel of the Plan to Bring the Two Cities Into One Municipality.

FRIENDS NOT DISHEARTENED

Those Favoring Annexation Will Now Proceed to Secure Consolidation Under the Provisions of of the Goehring Act—Confidence Felt That North Side Voters Will Give Their Support to the Scheme—Chamber of Commerce Is Preparing to Take the Necessary Steps to Put the Machinery in Motion.

In Philadelphia yesterday the supreme court handed down a decision declaring the Cook Greater Pittsburgh act unconstitutional. A dissenting opinion was written by Justice W. P. Potter of Pittsburgh.

The adverse decision is a severe blow to the plan of securing a greater city. The Goehring act, giving Allegheny a separate vote, is still available as a method of obtaining a consolidation of the two cities. Friends of municipal enlargement are disposed to proceed under this law. The chamber of commerce is preparing to take up the question.

Friends of a Greater Pittsburgh were keenly disappointed when they learned the supreme court had put a sprag in the wheel of annexation. While there is general regret over the death of the Cook act, the fight for an enlarged municipality is not abandoned. Another way is offered by the Goehring law. The chamber of commerce and the Pittsburgh administration are inclined to proceed under this statute.

While there had been much talk of an adverse decision and wagers were being made in the saloons that the highest court in the state would declare the Cook act unconstitutional, friends of a greater city had refused to believe these rumors. When the final verdict came it was a crushing blow. It brought joy to those who want Allegheny to remain a separate municipality in the hope that they may have a political future. The progressive citizens of the North Side are all disappointed, for they have been just as eager for annexation as have those on this side of the river, who desire to see Pittsburgh pass into her proper classification among the cities of the Union.

Wyman's Friends Happy.

Mayor James G. Wyman and his crowd in Allegheny were supposed to favor a Greater Pittsburgh. Wyman had promised Director E. M. Bigelow that the North Side municipal machine would be turned in for a greater city under the terms of the Cook act. When the news of the death of the law came yesterday two of Wyman's department heads were the first to throw their hats in the air and show joy over the blocking of municipal advancement. Directors McIlvain and Scandrett told how happy they are, the former even predicting defeat of the project under the Goehring act. There will probably not be a rush of boroughs and townships contiguous to the North Side to enter Greater Allegheny. They are invited by Director Scandrett to become a part of an annexation scheme he proposes. One of the set pieces in the Allegheny Fourth of July celebration will read, "A Greater Allegheny." McIlvain promises that those favoring to proceed with a Greater Pittsburgh under the Goehring act will be "cleaned out." "We'll clean them out," is the announcement of McIlvain, one of the men Wyman had agreed to turn in for annexation. He says he is well pleased with the decision.

Will Look for Loopholes.

When City Solicitor W. B. Rodgers has an opportunity to read the court's decision he will closely scrutinize it for loopholes. If there is any ground for asking for a re-argument of the case the step will be taken. He was confident the act would stand the test of the court and is greatly disappointed with the decision.

Director Bigelow is another who felt the blow, but the decision has not taken the fight out of him.

"Of course I am disappointed," said he, "but I have not quit. I will call a meeting of friends and determine what is to be done. We can proceed under the Goehring act, and I think this will be done. I believe the people of Allegheny want to come into Pittsburgh, and no time should be lost in offering them the only way remaining. I have not seen Mayor Wyman, but I would think he would stand by his promise to assist in securing a Greater Pittsburgh. I was confident the supreme court would sustain the act."

Mayor Hays is full of regret. He had expected a favorable decision. Like many other persons, he is inclined to believe the Goehring act should now be utilized.

Chamber Will Act.

The chamber of commerce promises to take prompt action. H. D. W. English is chairman of the municipal affairs committee and it will be for him to take the initiatory steps. He has called a meeting of his committee for Monday, when the question will be taken up. Mr. English personally inclines to taking advantage of the Goehring act.

Secretary George H. Anderson of the chamber is personally in favor of proceeding under the Goehring act. He says the matter is in the hands of Chairman English's committee.

Col. A. J. Logan, a member of the municipal affairs committee, favors continuing the fight for a greater city. He thinks no time should be lost in taking advantage of the provisions of the Goehring act.

Senator John M. Goehring of Allegheny, who is a strong friend of Greater Pittsburgh, and the author of the act giving Allegheny a separate vote, is hopeful that annexation can still be brought about.

"I am of the opinion," said he, "that the people of Allegheny want to become a part of Pittsburgh. While we were working at Harrisburg for the passage of the Cook bill, I was in touch with the business men and property owners in Allegheny. They were urging me to secure consolidation. The only oppo-

OBJECTED TO THE DECISION

JUSTICE W. P. POTTER.

The dissenting opinion in the Greater Pittsburgh decision was filed by Justice Potter, who is a Pittsburgher.

MULTITUDES STAND IN RAIN TO HEAR PRESIDENT SPEAK

Chief Magistrate of the Nation Is Greeted With Great Enthusiasm in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—After a two-days' sojourn in Massachusetts, President Roosevelt tonight left Jersey City at 8:15 for Washington. At Jersey City a crowd cheered the chief magistrate and he bowed his acknowledgements as the train pulled out for the national capital.

In circumstances most unfavorable as far as the weather was concerned, he was accorded throughout the trip an enthusiastic welcome in all cities and towns he visited in Massachusetts and Connecticut. He was accorded distinguished honors and given evidence of regard by three educational institutions.

Despite the tremendous electrical storm which swept over Massachusetts and Connecticut this afternoon the president's journey from Williamstown and to Jersey City was a prolonged ovation. After leaving Williamstown at 1:40 p. m., the special train stopped at North Adams, Adams, Pittsfield, Brookfield Junction, Danbury and South Norwalk. The crowds assembled at the six places aggregated many thousands. At North Adams, the home of Congressman Lawrence, the president left the train for a few minutes and addressed a great crowd of people from a stand erected near the station. He addressed himself particularly to the children. The schools had been dismissed and all the factories of the city had been shut down in order that all citizens might join in the welcome to the president.

What constituted a picturesque feature of all the greetings extended the president during the day was the total disregard by the throngs of people for the heavily-falling rain, and hundreds were drenched as they listened to the president speak.

The president's train is scheduled to reach the national capital at 2 a. m. During the past two days President Roosevelt has been free temporarily, from the cares of state. When he left Washington he gave into the keeping of Secretary Hay the negotiations for peace in the far east during his absence. Since he left the White House he has received no news of importance bearing upon the pending negotiations.

RAINS BLOCK GREAT BATTLE

One Russian Detachment Is Completely Cut Off by the Flooded Streams.

CZAR'S ARMY IS RETREATING

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, June 23.—Dispatches to the Daily Telegraph from the seat of war indicate that it is not unlikely the heavy rains will stop the progress of the great battle. The Moji (Japan) correspondent of the paper says that the operations are being greatly impeded by the rains. The Manchurian plains are flooded and the roads are almost impassable to heavy transport, but the conditions are more favorable to the light wagons of the Japanese than to the heavy ones of the Russians. Lieut.-Gen. Mistchenke's operations have ceased, the correspondent says one of his detachments which was unable to retreat owing to the flooded streams, is completely cut off.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 23.—News from the battlefield is exceedingly meager. A press telegram of Tuesday's date speaks of a "rearguard action," and there are rumors in the city that the Russian army is retreating; but the latest dispatches received from Lieut.-Gen. Linevitch, bearing the same date, declared briefly that the Japanese advance had paused.

A dispatch from Gunshu pass of Wednesday's date, says the operations of the Japanese apparently ended after the last fight and they appeared to be merely clearing their immediate front.

It is probable the Russian advanced lines are crossing the railroad and will continue their retirement more or less hurriedly in order to avoid being flanked and pocketed until the positions at Sipinghai are reached. The main forces seemingly are not yet in collision.

Col. Lodygensky, one of the correspondents of the Associated Press, died at Harbin of blood poisoning.

GUNSHU PASS, MANCHURIA, June 21.—The operations of the Japanese during the last five days, which at first were thought to be portentous, apparently ended after the last fight. The Japanese appear to be merely clearing their immediate front.

WANTED BOOKS DESTROYED.

Senator Mitchell's Partner Says He Declared the Entries Would Convict Him.

PORTLAND, ORE., June 22.—On his seventieth birthday John H. Mitchell, senior United States senator from Oregon, today listened to the testimony of Judge Tanner, his lifelong friend and law partner, telling of the alleged practicing of the senator before departments in Washington.

He said Senator Mitchell demanded that the books of the firm be destroyed, saying the entries would not only indict, but convict him, if they fell into the hands of the government.

HILL CHARGES PERJURY.

Former Chief of Philadelphia Filtration Bureau Declares Witness Against Him Lied.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—John W. Hill, former chief of the bureau of filtration, who was yesterday held in $8,000 for trial on the charge of falsifying the records of his bureau, issued a statement tonight in which he denies the charges made against him.

He says the testimony of Fred Schaffnauser that he was ordered by Mr. Hill to falsify his monthly reports, any or all, is "wilful, deliberate and corrupt perjury of the rankest kind."

Attempt on John Mitchell's Life.

SCRANTON, PA., June 22.—(Special.)—An attempt was made to wreck the Erie train on which John Mitchell, president of the miners union, left Forest City at 8:50 o'clock last night. Many persons think the effort at wrecking was an attempt on Mitchell's life.

TURNER MUSCLE PUT TO THE TEST

Pittsburgh Societies Make Great Showing at the Indianapolis Festival.

GOOD CHANCE FOR PRIZES

Special Telegram From J. D. JHMSEN, Staff Correspondent.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 22.—The exhibition of Turner muscle, the real object of the quadrennial festival of the North American Turnerbund, began today. As the Pittsburgh district, by its numbers and its appearance in last night's parade, gained the plaudits of the people, so the district, by the excellent athletic work of many of its associations, impressed the belief of observers that the district will carry off some of the prizes.

None of the Turners of the whole national federation had seen in this country the kind of work done by the team which came over from Germany to represent the Turners of the German empire. These young men took part in the contests today, and perhaps some American Turners might have presented feats in horizontal bar work more difficult than those performed by the Germans, but the general performance of the strangers, for difficulty of feats, grace and style, was unexcelled. Even some of the judges, men who have been instructors in gymnastics in Turner societies, broke instinctively into applause at the sight of the things done by the Germans.

The exercises of the day opened on the State Fair grounds, where the active Turners, the men who take part in the athletic contests, are quartered in tents. They formed in marching order and came into town on the street cars, the fair grounds being five miles from the center of the city. The parade, with descriptive floats, went over the principal streets of the city, and when it was over the athletic contestants, 3,000 of them, returned to the fair grounds. At 2 p. m. the class and individual competition in apparatus work began, participated in by societies of groups 1 and 3, followed by the model exercises by groups 2 and 4, the division into groups being made according to the numbers of members in the individual. The prizes will be distributed according to the groups, each prize being quadruplicate.

Among the Pittsburgh district societies which took part in the exercises were Monaca, Altoona, East Pittsburgh, Mt. Oliver, Allentown, McKeesport, Central of Pittsburgh, Johnstown, South Side, Birmingham and Allegheny.

PLANS NOT YET FORMED.

Attorney W. B. Rodgers Says Union Bridge Fight Is Not Decided.

Just what procedure will be taken on behalf of the stockholders of the Union Bridge Company in connection with Secretary Taft's order to raise the bridge, is not yet determined, according to W. B. Rodgers, Esq., counsel for the company.

"Whatever action is necessary will be taken for the preservation of the bridge company's property," said Attorney Rodgers. "It is likely that proceedings similar to those begun regarding the Monongahela bridge at Brownsville will follow. Further than that I have nothing to say about the matter."

RUSSIANS ARE MOSTLY SHOT IN THE HEAD

BERLIN, June 22.—Dr. Schaefer, who went to Manchuria in 1904 in behalf of the German military medical authorities, has made a report to the general staff, in which he reports the percentage of Russian losses was unusually high, ranging from 20 to 75 per cent of their fighting strength. A large proportion of the wounds were in the head, owing to the defensive fighting behind breastworks.

Fatal Wreck on P. & L. E.

RICE'S LANDING, June 22.—(Special.)—A. J. Lloyd of McKees Rocks was killed and William Burkhardt of Brownsville had his left leg broken in a wreck on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad last night. The engine jumped the track and went over an embankment, and Lloyd and Burkhardt were caught under it. The latter was taken to Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh.

It is probable investigation tomorrow will develop that a boy 14 years old meddled with the switch at the Mentor station last night, and caused the wreck of the Twentieth Century flyer. William Usher, ticket agent of the Nickle Plate, and James Barnes of Willoughby, were on the scene of the wreck 20 minutes after it happened. On the way they met a boy carrying a lantern.

Boy Tampered With Switch.

They questioned him, and he said that he had been down to shut a switch. They questioned him further, thinking it possible the boy had tampered with the switch, but the boy insisted that he had shut the switch. The men went to the scene of the wreck and found the switch open, but locked. They are of the opinion the boy thought there was a freight ahead of the Twentieth Century and opened the switch to let it through to take a siding, and that he meant to open the switch instead of closing it.

H. S. Storrs, general superintendent of the Lake Shore, said the matter will be investigated tomorrow, although he is inclined to doubt the story that a boy had possession of a key and could turn the switch.

Wreck Probably Intentional.

As to who is responsible for the open switch which was the cause of the wreck the railroad officials are still uncertain. They believe the wreck is the result either of a maniac who wanted to see a wreck of such a fast train or some person bent on revenge. A careful examination of the switch today showed it was in perfect condition. Detectives are working on the case.

Trainmen are of the opinion the crew of the Twentieth Century was deceived by a second white light 100 feet beyond the switch, which was open, but while traveling at such fast speed were unable to gauge the distance, and mistook the second light for the first one.

W. H. Marshall, general manager of the Lake Shore, believes the speed of the train was not a contributory cause to the wreck. He said other Lake Shore trains travel through Mentor at a speed equal to that attained by the Twentieth Century last night, which was not. Mr. Marshall said, above the rate of 60 miles an hour. The schedule for the train called for a speed of 57 miles an hour at that point.

The wreck had no effect on the sale of tickets for the same train tonight, the full quota allotted to this city having

LOOMIS MAY LOSE HIS JOB

His Future Is Clouded by the Criticism of Secretary Taft.

HAS FOES IN SENATE

Bowen's Friends Would Probably Block Promotion Extended Assistant Secretary.

DEPOSED MINISTER DOUBTED

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Room 19, Postal Building, WASHINGTON, June 22.

It is certain that Francis B. Loomis, who has been exonerated of charges against his official integrity, but criticised by Secretary Taft for indiscretion in personal business ventures when minister to Venezuela, will not much longer actively serve as assistant secretary of state, the post he has held for more than two years. He has already planned to go to Europe for a portion of two months' leave, to which he is entitled. He has engaged passage on the Philadelphia, sailing from New York Saturday, and plans to leave then. He plans to stay in Europe but a short time. Entirely apart from the Bowen-Loomis scandal, President Roosevelt many weeks ago decided to make Mr. Lloyd C. Griscom, now American minister to Japan, assistant secretary of state, and had thought of sending Mr. Loomis to fill the resultant vacancy at Tokyo. There is a probability that Japan will soon seek to raise diplomatic relations with the United States to the rank of embassies. Mr. Loomis said tonight that he had no intention of resigning, and that there was no foundation for rumors that he would.

The manner in which Secretary Taft criticised Mr. Loomis' action as minister to Caracas and the approval by the president of Mr. Taft's remarks is thought now to preclude the possibility of Mr. Loomis serving as minister to Japan. In the highest administration circles there is a feeling that sufficient opposition will be mustered by the Bowen forces to prevent the confirmation of Mr. Loomis' nomination to any post to which the president might desire to transfer or promote him. Aside from the charges of which Mr. Loomis has now been cleared, there is considerable hostility to him in the senate. He came in for a liberal round of the criticism made of the administration's initial steps in the Santo Domingo affair.

The best information here is that the president will take no further action concerning Mr. Loomis at the present time. The affair will be allowed to simmer. Mr. Loomis will go on his vacation, which will help the affair to slip out of sight. The president is disposed to stand by Mr. Loomis and to demonstrate publicly that he does not consider him smirched, but it is thought probable that the administration would not welcome a fight with the senate such as it is deemed certain would be provoked by Mr. Loomis' nomination for an important diplomatic post.

Mr. Bowen's statement was just about what it was expected he would make. There is a disposition here to discredit his statement, that after he had made charges against Mr. Loomis he was offered a change of post to Chile, with the understanding he could later be minister to Brazil. There is the best of authority for stating that this was the plan of the administration.

GOV. FOLK WILL PUT DOWN GAMBLING WITH MILITIA

He Declares If Soldiers Are Refused Entrance to Delmar, They Will Batter Down Gates and Enter.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, MO., June 22.—Gov. Folk told friends in St. Louis Wednesday night that militia would be sent to Delmar track Saturday if gambling continued there at that time. He said they would probably be refused admission to the track, in which event they would batter down the gates and enter. It was suggested there might be some shooting in such an event.

"Oh, no," replied the governor. "Not unless the other people shoot first."

The governor added the soldiers would arrest everybody found in the place if it should become necessary to send them there. Sheriff Herpel has been instructed to swear in a sufficient number of deputies to arrest every bookmaker and proprietor in Delmar and to continue making the arrests as long as there is any gambling at the track or on the premises.

KITCHENER EXPECTS WAR WITH RUSSIA OVER INDIA

LONDON, June 22.—Gen. Lord Kitchener, commander-in-chief of the British forces in India, seems to regard as inevitable a great struggle with Russia for the possession of India, and to believe that the existing arrangements for the defense of the Indian empire are altogether obsolete and ineffective, as is shown in a Blue Book issued tonight. The government has approved Lord Kitchener's plans.

Crawford Jury Disagrees.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—No verdict was reached in the case of William G. Crawford, charged with conspiring with August W. Machen and George E. Lorenz to defraud the government in connection with contracts to furnish letter carriers' satchels to the postoffice department, and after deliberating for more than 47 hours the jury was discharged today.

HIGHEST STATE TRIBUNAL HOLDS COOK ACT TO BE CLASS LEGISLATION

GREATER CITY GETS SETBACK

Officials Permanently Enjoined from Seeking to Hold Election.

MAYOR RESTRAINED

Text of Decision Is Exhaustive Entering Fully Into All Phases of the Enactment.

JUSTICE POTTER DISSENTS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Press Building,
PHILADELPHIA, June 22.

The plan for a Greater Pittsburgh has suffered temporary defeat at the hands of the supreme court of Pennsylvania. The legislative act providing for the annexation of Allegheny to Pittsburgh, known as the Greater Pittsburgh bill or Cook law, was today declared to be unconstitutional.

The court made permanent the injunction restraining the mayor and councils of Pittsburgh from applying for an order of court for an election whereby Pittsburgh and Allegheny would vote on the question of annexation under the Cook law. A dissenting opinion was filed by Justice Potter.

The proceedings in the supreme court were instituted by opponents of the proposed merger in Allegheny. The alleged grounds of their opposition were that the Cook law took from the people of the smaller city their rights, in that the people of the larger city might vote them into Pittsburgh against their wishes. Justice Mestrezat wrote the opinion in the case which was entitled appeal of Thomas G. Sample, et al., against the mayor and councils of the city of Pittsburgh. The opinion follows:

Text of the Decision.

Thomas G. Sample et al., vs. City of Pittsburgh.

Bill to restrain defendants from taking proceedings to annex the city of Allegheny to the city of Pittsburgh. Mestrezat, J.

This is a bill filed in this case by the plaintiffs, who are citizens and taxpayers of Allegheny City, to restrain the defendants, the city of Pittsburgh and William B. Hays, mayor; James S. Wightman, president of select council and R. B. Ward, president of common council, from taking any proceedings to annex the city of Allegheny to the city of Pittsburgh, under the provisions of an act of assembly commonly known as the Cook law and entitled "An act providing that where the two cities are contiguous and in the same county the smaller may be annexed to the larger, prescribing the method of proceeding and the effect of annexation—providing for the division of such enlarged cities into wards for the apportionment of common council and for the indebtedness of such cities." Approved April 20, 1905.

It appears from the averments of the bill that the city of Pittsburgh through its mayor and councils have instituted proceedings in the court of quarter sessions of Allegheny county, to have the city of Allegheny annexed to the city of Pittsburgh under this act of assembly. The bill avers, inter alia, that the two cities are cities of the second class located in Allegheny county and are separated from each other by the Allegheny river and the Ohio river, both navigable streams, that said two cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny are the only two contiguous cities in the state of Pennsylvania, and are the only two cities in any county of the state that are contiguous—no other locality in the state of Pennsylvania where there are two cities as classified under the laws of Pennsylvania, nor is there any other locality in the state where any borough or township is contiguous to a city that can be annexed thereto under the present laws of the state of Pennsylvania except by a majority vote of the electors of said borough or township as provided by the constitution of Pennsylvania—and that the Cook law under which the defendants are proceeding is unconstitutional because prohibited by article 3, section 7, subdivision 2 of the constitution, which provided that the general assembly shall not pass any local or special law regulating the affairs of counties, cities, townships, wards, boroughs or school districts—that the Cook law is a local law because its provisions can only apply to one locality, namely, the mouth of the Allegheny river where it empties into the Ohio river and for some distance above and below its mouth—that there is no other locality in the state of Pennsylvania to which the Cook law could apply and that it was the intention of the legislature that it should apply to this locality—that the law is special and class legislation and is unconstitutional.

The Only Contiguous Cities.

The defendants filed an answer in which they deny that the act in question is unconstitutional, and they aver, inter alia, as follows:

"It may be that the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny are the only two contiguous cities of the state situated in the same county, but it is submitted that the time is not far distant when contiguity will exist as to the boundaries of other cities of the state within the meaning of the act of the general assembly approved the 20th day of April, 1905. And that in the very near future the city of Pittsburgh and the city of McKeesport both of which are in Allegheny county, will be in all probability, contiguous."

The first section of the act of 1905 provides inter alia, that where two cities situated in the same county are or may be contiguous to each other, the city having the smaller population, as shown by the last preceding United States census may be annexed to the city having the larger population as shown by the said census. It is further provided in this section that "For the purposes of this act cities separated by a stream, river or highway shall be included under the term contiguous." The act then in several sections provides in detail the proceedings which shall be taken to carry it into effect.

The subject of this statute is that of annexation of one city to another, and it requires no argument to show and we understand it is conceded that it must be regulated by general legislation. A careful consideration of the act, however, convinces us that it was not intended to be general in its operation throughout the state, and that it clearly offends against section 7 of article 3 of the constitution of 1874, which provides that "the general assembly shall not pass any local or special law regulating the affairs of counties, cities, townships, wards, boroughs or school districts."

We do not deem it necessary to enter into a discussion of the power of the general assembly to classify cities for the purpose of legislation of the multitude of cases decided by this court on the subject. We have concerned here not with the subject of classification of cities, as to whether the legislature, in enacting the statute in question has transgressed the constitution in that respect, but simply whether the act is local or special legislation in contemplation of the constitutional provision prohibiting such legislation. This section of the constitution has frequently been the subject of interpretation by this court.

Crawford County Case Cited.

Wealth versus Patton 83, Pa., 258, involved the constitutionality of an act of assembly entitled "An act to provide for the heading of courts in certain cities of this commonwealth." The act required that in all counties containing a certain population, and having a city with a certain population situated at a certain distance from the county seat, the judges of the courts of the county should head a session of the court in such city after every regular term of court for the county. This court held the act to be special legislation and in conflict with article 3, section 7, of the constitution. The trial judges in that case found that Crawford county was the only county to which the act could apply at that time. Mr. Justice Paxson, delivering the opinion, says (P. 280): "This is classification run mad. Why not say all counties of the name of Crawford with a population exceeding 50,000 that contains a city called Titusville, with a population of over 8,000 and situated 7 miles from the county seat? Or all counties with a population of over 50,000, watered by a certain river or bounded by a certain mountain. There can be no proper classification of cities or counties except by population. The moment we resort to geographical descriptions we enter the domain of special legislation for the reason that such classification operates on certain cities or counties to the perpetual exclusion of all others. That is not classification which merely designates one county in the commonwealth and contains no provision by which any other county may, by reason of its increase of population in the future, come within the class."

A subsequent and similar act intended to accomplish the same result and apply to counties and cities of the future as well as of the present is also declared unconstitutional in Snowden's appeal, 96 Pa., 422. Justice Paxson, again delivering the opinion says (P. 426): "It is no part of our business to discuss the wisdom of this legislation. However vicious in principle we might regard it, our plain duty is to enforce it provided it is not in conflict with the fundamental law. It requires but a glance at the act to see that it is an attempt to evade the constitution. It is special legislation under the attempted disguise of a general law. Of all forms of special legislation, this is the most vicious. The act of June 12, 1878, the act then under discussion, makes no attempt at the classification of cities. It is merely an effort to legislate for certain cities of the fifth class to a exclusion of all other cities of the same class. That is to say, that it refers only to cities of the fifth class which are situated in a county having a population of 45,000. Classification which is grounded in necessity and has for its sole object, an invasion of the constitution will not be encouraged."

McCarthy vs. Commonwealth, 110 Pa., 243, involved the consideration of an act providing for the payment of salaries instead of fees for county officers, and required the officers to pay the fees to the treasurer in counties containing a certain population. The act was held to be special legislation and void. In delivering the opinion Mr. Justice Gordon says (p. 246): "By what process of reasoning is this legislation which has selected for its operation three of four counties from all those composing the commonwealth to be justified? Is the justification to be found in the well-recognized legislative power of classification? We think not. It is admitted that classification, even where not specially recognized by nature, custom, the laws of trade of the constitution, must in certain class be adopted ex necessitate as is the case of cities under the act of May 23, 1874. There is here, however, a new and complete classification and not a mere cutting out of one or more cities designated by population from the general class, and in this act of 1874 is distinguishable from that of 1853—the one then under consideration) in which no general classification is attempted, but a special legislation adopted for certain counties selected from all others and to be ascertained by their populations rather than by their names. If such needed legislation were to be recognized as legitimate, vain would be the constitutional prohibition of local or special law. But little ingenuity in the way of so-called classification would be necessary in order to isolate every single county, borough, ward, township and school district in the state and provide for each its own local code."

In Morrison vs. Bachert, 113 Pa., 322, we held an act to be local legislation which regulated the fees of county officers, "except in counties containing more than 150,000 or less than 10,000." Mr. Justice Paxson delivering the opinion says (p. 328): "That the act in question is in direct conflict with the constitution is too plain for argument. It is only necessary to read the title to this act to see this. It excludes perpetually from its operations all counties having populations of over 150,000 inhabitants. This makes it a local law. If it can exclude Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, it may exclude every other county in the state, but the one county seeking such special or local legislation. Nor can this legislation be sustained upon any rational theory of classification. In point of fact, there is no attempt at classification. It was a mere exclusion of certain counties."

Acts Declared Local.

In Scranton school district, 113 Pa. 176, an act was declared local legislation which provided for the levying of taxes etc., and having a proviso excluding all cities of the third class, which, by an ordinance, would not accept the provisions of the act. Greene J., delivering the opinion says (P. 190): "The circumstance that the power to determine the question is delegated to another body, does not at all effect the question. The practical result is the same. The law of 1875 will be limited to the one or more cities that do accept and that makes it local. All our recent decisions are to the effect that if local results either are or may be produced by a piece of legislation, it offends against this provision of the constitution and is void.

In Davis vs. Clark, 105, page 377, an act giving the right to file a mechanics lein with a provision that it should not apply to counties having over a certain population, was held to be local and therefore void. Mercur, C. J., in the opinion of the court says (6384): "The main contention is whether the act of 1878 is in conflict with this clause of the constitution. It shows on its face that it was not intended to apply and does not apply to the whole state. It assumes what was a well known fact, that some of the counties had each a population greater than 300,000. In the counties of Philadelphia and Allegheny, that greater population had been legally found by census of 1870. It was not then generally an act applicable to every part of the commonwealth. It did apply to a great number of counties, but there is no dividing line between a local and a general statute. It must be either the one or the other. If it apply to the whole state it is general. If to a part only it is local. As a legal principle it is effectually local when it applies to 65 counties out of the 67, as if it applies to one county only. The exclusion of a single county from the operation of the act makes it local."

Perkins vs. Philadelphia, 156, page 554, involved the consideration of "an act to abolish commissioners of public buildings and to place all public buildings heretofore under the control of such commissioners under the control of the department of public works in cities of the first class." The act was held to be local and unconstitutional. Mr. Justice Dean, delivering the opinion, said (page 562): "This act purports to e a general law applicable to cities of the first class. We have held, and now adhere to it, that the legislature may lawfully classify cities for corporate purposes, and that an act to promote such purposes is not local or special merely because at the date of its passage there was but one city to which it applied. That it has been decided in case after case since the constitution of 1874 went into effect, in positive, unmistakable language, that if an act was intended to apply to but one particular city, county, township, and was not applicable to and could not apply to any other, it was local, and therefore unconstitutional. This act is nominally general, applies in terms to cities of the first class, abolishes commissioners of public buildings for the use of courts and municipal purposes in such cities created by special acts of assembly, and places all buildings heretofore under their control under the control of the department of public works. At the date of its passage there was just one city, one set of commissioners, one special act of assembly, and one public building to which it could apply. From the very nature of the case there never could be any other city in the first class to which the act could apply, for if traders or the legislature erected public works buildings heretofore under the control of such commissioners, no matter how many cities come into this class, nor how soon they reach it, this act cannot apply to them if their affairs have not heretofore been regulated by any such act as that of 1870."

Acts on All Classes Alike.

From this and other decisions of the court it is settled that the test whether a statute is local and special legislation within the prohibition of the constitution is whether it operates upon all counties or cities alike, and, when they are properly classified it acts upon all classes alike, or whether it operates upon certain counties or cities or upon part of a class of counties or cities and excludes all others. If the latter is the result or the effect of the act it matter be so intended to be, it is local or special, notwithstanding that it is in terms general. The court will look at the substance and not the form of legislation in determining the question and a local or special act repugnant to the fundamental law will be declared though it may be disguised as a general act. Classification of cities may be used as a basis for legislation which relates to municipal affairs, but if legislation concerns subjects of general as distinguished from a municipal character, it passes into the realm of local or special legislation forbidden by the constitution.

However disguised classification can never be exclusively invoked for the purpose of evading the constitutional inhibition against local or special legislation. The answer of the defendants raises the question of the right of the plaintiffs, citizens and taxpayers of Allegheny county, to maintain this bill and test the constitutionality of the act. Before we think this question too well settled to require extended discussion—Wells vs. Bain, 75 Pa. 39; White vs. Philadelphia, 77 Pa., 338; Pittsburgh's appeal, 79 Pa. 317. This last case was a bill to restrain the city of Pittsburgh and its officers from exercising authority conferred by an act of assembly admitted to the city by ordinance passed in pursuance of an act of assembly, the provisions of which the plaintiff citizens and taxpayers of the municipality claimed had not been complied with by councils in admitting the municipality as part of the city. The defendants denied the right of the plaintiffs to maintain the bill. In sustaining the bill Mr. Justice Gordon, speaking for the court, said (P. 324): "The right of a private citizen to maintain a bill such as that upon which this case is founded is hardly open for argument. So many are the cases in which such bills have been sustained that one might suppose this a matter to be no longer open for debate." It was also said in the opinion that "The plaintiff, who is threatened by a most burdensome imposition should have the power to inquire into the right by which the councils of Pittsburgh propose to act in subjecting his person and property to their jurisdiction for the purpose of municipal government and taxation."

Defines "Affairs of Cities."

There can be no doubt that the act of 1905 regulates "the affairs of cities" in the contemplation of the constitution. In Morrison vs. Bachert (supra) the trial court defined "affairs of counties" to be such as "concern counties in their governmental and corporate capacity." This court, however, thought the definition too narrow a construction of these words and held that "when the constitution speaks of the affairs of a county it means such affairs as affect the people of that county." In that case it was held that an act to ascertain and appoint the fees to be received by certain county officers was an act "regulating the affairs of counties." This construction of the clause in question was followed and approved in Frost vs. Cherry, 132, page 1, where it was held that this clause of the constitution avoided an act of assembly repealing a section of the fence law of 1700. And in commonwealth vs. Patton (Supra) and Secwden's appeal (Supra), this court held that an act of assembly authorizing the holding of special sessions of the courts of certain counties away from the county seat was a law regulating the affairs of counties and was special legislation and void. In Perkins vs. Philadelphia (Supra) it was held that an act of assembly "regulates affairs of the city" which put public buildings theretofore under their control under the control of one of the departments of the city government. The act under consideration here not only affects the people of the two cities, but concerns the two cities in their governmental and corporate capacities. It enlarges the territory and population of one and deprives the other of its charter and government as a city. It is apparent, we think, that the act is a "law regulating the affairs of" the cities within its operation.

Is the legislation in question of local or special operation, and therefore, within the prohibition of article 8, section 7, of the constitution? That is the vital and controlling question in the case, and, under well established rules of constitutional interpretation and our own construction of the clause in question it must be answered in the affirmative. The title of the act clearly indicates the subject of the enacting part, and discloses the local and special features of the statute. It shows that the act was not intended to apply in its operation, but conditions are imposed which restrict its application to certain cities, thereby depriving the other cities of this state of the benefits of its provisions. The statute is operative "where two cities are contiguous and in the same county." Its provisions can be invoked to annex only two cities when they are thus situated. Two cities of this description may be annexed to each other and all others are excluded from the operation of the statute. As we take judicial cognizance of the judicial divisions of the state as well as of their locations, we not only know the fact, but it is averred in the bill and not denied in the answer, that the cities of Allegheny and Pittsburgh in Allegheny county are the only two contiguous cities in the state, and that there are no two contiguous cities in any other county in the state. The act therefore of its terms in its operation is to these two cities, and the effect or result of the legislation is the same and the act as clearly special as if the names of the two cities had been written in the statute instead of the paraphrase used in the description of the cities subject to its operation. The identification of the two cities intended to be affected by the act is also aided by the provision of the statute that "For the purposes of this act cities separated by a stream, river or highway shall be included under the term contiguous," aside from the contention that the act applies only to cities separated by a stream, river or highway, this clause of the act clearly suggests the two Allegheny county cities as the cities subject to its operation. We judicially know that Pittsburgh and Allegheny are the only two cities in the commonwealth separated by a stream, river or highway, and the fear that that fact would render these cities not contiguous within the meaning of the statute moved the promoters of this legislation to further identify them by inserting this clause in the act. This feature should not and cannot be ignored when the court is called upon to test the constitutionality of the statute, as it clearly ear-marks the legislation as local and special.

Contingencies Too Remote.

There is no merit in the contention that at some time in the future there may be two other cities which may become contiguous, and in that event can be consolidated under the provisions of the act. With the knowledge of the facts known to the legislature, as well as to the court, this is not within the range of probability, but is a possibility so remote that it must be excluded from consideration in determining the constitutionality of the statute. It could only occur if a community adjacent to one of the cities of the state should become sufficiently populous to enable it to become a city and should take the necessary legal steps to make itself a city and subject to the operation of the act, or if the boroughs lying between and connecting certain cities of the state should, by the requisite legal proceedings, be annexed to those cities, or form themselves into a city and thereby connect two existing cities, so as to make the act operative. These are simply contingencies within the realm of speculation and entirely too remote to support legislation otherwise repugnant to the constitutional mandate. The statute requires any two cities desirous of availing themselves of its provisions to be located in the same county. This specifies, but there is no exception to cities within certain territorial limits and brings it within the domain of special legislation prohibited by the constitution.

The act does not attempt to classify cities on any basis whatever. It provides simply that it shall operate on two cities situated in the same county. It therefore excludes from its province and denies its privileges to all cities separated by a county line, or which are wholly within the same county, although occupying a contiguous territory. All cities whose boundaries are coterminis with the county lins are perpetually excluded from the operation of the statute, although other cities may adjoin them at different points in their boundaries. This distinction made in the act between the cities of the commonwealth is not based upon necessity, nor upon any ground which the law recognizes any justifying classifications. Its effect is to restrict the operation of the statute to two cities located in the same territorial division of the state and when considered in the light of the conceded facts it fixes with unmistakable certainty the two cities to be consolidated under its provisions. A clearer or more palpable attempt to evade the constitutional prohibition against special and local legislation is not disclosed in any of the numerous bills introduced in the general assembly since the adoption of the present constitution, not excepting the statute which Mr. Justice Paxson in Commonwealth vs. Patton (supra) very properly characterized as "classification run mad."

The present constitution went into effect almost a third of a century ago. Prior to its adoption there was practically no constitutional restraint on the power of the general assembly to enact local or special legislation. As has been pointed out in the opinions of this court one of the manifest objects of the adoption of the last constitution by the people of the state was to eradicate the evils of local and special legislation which had grown to such an extent as to make its abuse almost unendurable. Such was the purpose of section 7 of article 3 which defines the scope of the power of which the general assembly is prohibited from passing any local or special law. Notwithstanding this emphatic and comprehensive declaration in the constitution against this species of legislation there has not been a session of the general assembly since its adoption that the framers of legislation have not attempted to evade this provision of the instrument by all the ingenuity at their command.

Court Gave Warnings.

They have done this in the face of repeated warnings of this court that the constitutional mandate would be rigidly enforced. Nearly 20 years ago in speaking of this provision of the constitution and the intention of the court to compel a strict observance of it, in Morrison vs. Bachert (Supra) Mr. Justice Paxson (P. 329) says: "It is the plain provision and will be plainly enforced. It is our purpose to adhere rigidly to that instrument that the people may not be deprived of its benefits. It ought to be unnecessary for this court to make this judicial declaration, but it is proper to do so in view of the amount of legislation which is periodically placed upon the statute books in entire disregard of the fundamental law. As we view it this note of warning at this time is needed." We desire to reiterate and emphasize this admonition. It is within our power, and it is our duty to strike down legislation repugnant to any provision of the constitution. It is not the province of either department of the government to criticize or question the wisdom of the people in the adoption of any part of their fundamental law, nor can either department be permitted to ignore or evade its provisions under any pretext or by any device whatever.

We are of opinion that the act of April 20, 1905, providing for the annexation of two contiguous cities in the same county is local and special legislation within the provision of article 3, section 7, of the constitution and is therefore void. It follows that the defendants are without authority to institute or maintain proceedings taken by them for the purpose of annexing the city of Allegheny to the city of Pittsburgh, and the plaintiffs are entitled to the relief prayed for in the bill.

This is the decree: This case came on to be heard on bill and answer and was argued by counsel, and now, June 22, 1905, after consideration, it is ordered and decreed that an injunction should be issued perpetually restraining the city of Pittsburgh, and William B. Hays, mayor; James S. Wightman, chairman of select council, and R. B. Ward, president of common council, of the city of Pittsburgh, and each of them from taking or maintaining any proceedings under the act of assembly approved April 20, 1905, for the purpose of annexing the city of Allegheny to the city of Pittsburgh. It is further ordered that the costs of this proceeding be paid by the city of Pittsburgh.

Justice Potter Dissents.

Dissenting opinion, Potter, J.: I am not able to agree with the reasoning of the opinion which has been adopted by the majority of the court in this case, nor to accept the conclusion therein set forth. Even if it be true that the act in question was intended to facilitate the union of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, yet that fact cannot in itself affect the constitutionality of the act. The fact that legislation meets the needs of some particular locality does not render it obnoxious to the constitution. Perhaps most legislation owes its origin to special or particular needs which are no less meritorious because they must be included in and satisfied by laws expressed in general terms. In his work, "restrictions upon local and special legislation," Mr. Binney has defined general laws to be such as "operate uniformly upon all members of any class of persons, places or things requiring legislation peculiar to themselves in the matters covered by the laws." A law is to be regarded as general when it is framed in general terms, is restricted to no locality, and operates equally upon all of a group of objects whose condition or needs render such legislation appropriate.

The act of April 20, 1905, provides for the consolidation of any two contiguous cities situated in the same county in the state. It must be admitted that "any two contiguous cities" is a general expression. It matters not at how many or how few places in the state there may be two cities which are contiguous. Wherever and whenever there are such the act would apply. As Mr. Binney says, if the classification be valid, the number of members in a class is wholly immaterial. So that it makes no difference whether there be one or 100 places in the state which will at the present time fit the conditions of the act, so long as the way is open for other places to come in as occasionally arise.

But it is suggested that the further limitation of the operation of the act to cases where two contiguous cities are "situate in the same county" makes it local. But why so? In so far as the language of the act is concerned no county in the state is excluded from its operation. There are several reasons why no city should be allowed to extend beyond the boundaries of a single county, and the limitation in that respect, if general, is legitimate.

Under the act of February 2, 1854, a local act applying to Philadelphia, it is provided that the boundaries of Philadelphia shall be extended so as to embrace the whole of the territory of the county of Philadelphia, and it is suggested that because there cannot, therefore, be two contiguous cities in Philadelphia county, that county is excluded from the operation of the act, which is the result that the legislation thereby becomes local.

But this court decided squarely in Evans vs. Philipi (117 Pa., 226) that a statute general in form is not to be treated as a local one, simply because of the intervention of some local statute unrepealed which prevents it from taking general effect.

Aside from that, it is difficult to see why the fact that no county in the state is already so filled within its boundaries should be any more of an obstacle to the efficiency of a general law than the fact that in many counties of the state no cities at all exist at the present time. The local act governing Philadelphia may be repealed, and that county may be enlarged in which case this act would annex to it every county in the state and contiguous cities may grow up in any county which under the terms of this act may in due time be annexed to each other and consolidated into one municipality. I would uphold the constitutionality of the act of April 20, 1905, and dissolve the bill.

been sold long before the time of the train's departure.

Coroner York of Lake county announced this evening an inquest would begin next Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the court house in Painesville. He says he will summon officials of the railroad company to testify.

NEW YORK, June 22.—President Newman of the New York Central and Lake Shore railroad said today the 20-hour schedule of the Twentieth Century Limited train will be restored at once in place of the 18-hour schedule, on which the train had been running for only a few days. President Newman said:

"Since the sad accident which has happened on the Lake Shore I have had a consultation with the operating officials, who have explained that the accident was caused by a misplaced switch and was not due to the speed of the train. They assure me the present schedule can be safely and easily maintained.

"While I agree with the operating officials that there is no physical reason why the schedule should not be continued, nevertheless, in my judgment, the time of the Twentieth Century Limited should be restored to 20 hours, and it will be done at once. Until the new schedule can be arranged the Twentieth Century Limited train will leave New York and Chicago as at present, but will run on a 20-hour schedule, arriving at either terminus two hours later than at present."

S. C. Beckwith, who died, was president of the S. C. Beckwith Special Advertising agency, which has offices in this city.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., June 22.—D. E. Arthur, who was injured in the Lake Shore limited train wreck, is connected with the American Appraisal Company in this city.

CHICAGO, June 22.—H. H. Wright, whose name appears in the list of casualities, was secretary of the Featherstone Foundry Machine Company here. James H. Gibson, another Chicago victim, was secretary of the American Foundry and Machinery Company.

Czar Must Approve Legislation.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 22.—The Novoe Vrâmya today announces definitely that the powers of the new popular assembly, which will be composed of 500 members elected for five years, will be co-equal with those of the council of the empire, and that all legislation to become law must pass both houses and receive the emperor's approval.

Church Builds a Spite Fence.

The congregation of the First Methodist Protestant church, Aiken avenue and Howe street, has started the erection of a 24 foot fence which is to be 100 feet long, so that the church property might be separated from the livery stable of Bishop & Ports, which abuts in the rear. It is said the stable has been obnoxious to worshipers.

GRATIFYING TO POLITICIANS

Alleghenians Find Much Pleasure in the Death of the Cook Greater Pittsburgh Act.

CLAIM TO FAVOR ANNEXATION

When the news reached Allegheny that the supreme court had declared the Greater Pittsburgh bill unconstitutional, it caused many expressions of pleasure among the North Side politicians and there was talk of organizing a big street demonstration. It is probable that a street parade will be held to show the feeling of gratification over the defeat of the Cook bill. It was announced last night that a call for a meeting to make arrangements for the parade will be issued today.

The chief objection to the Cook bill by politicians of Allegheny was that the attempt to annex the North Side to Pittsburgh was done without giving taxpayers of Allegheny a voice in the matter. The general opinion in Allegheny is that the greater city is an assured fact, but different methods must be used in bringing it about.

Thomas G. Sample, in whose name the suit was brought, said he is greatly pleased over the decision. He said he did not expect anything else, as the Cook bill in his opinion was unfair in all its principles and gave Allegheny no choice in the matter. Edward M. Bigelow, director of the department of public works of Pittsburgh, Mr. Sample said, declared for large improvements after the Cook bill was passed and that Allegheny, if annexed to Pittsburgh, would have to pay its share for them, while the North Side would not derive any benefit from the improvements. Allegheny, he declared, has everything to gain and nothing to lose by remaining a separate municipality. Mr. Sample said he believes that if the North Side had been given fair treatment in the beginning the people would have agreed to annexation.

Henderson Is Sarcastic.

"The first thing I intend to do is find Representative L. B. Cook, who secured the pen with which Gov. Pennypacker signed the Greater Pittsburgh bill, and gave it to the Pittsburgh Carnegie museum, and ask him to get it back and give it to me. It was placed in Carnegie museum for exhibition, but I believe it will be an article of much more interest in the Allegheny Carnegie library, now," said Harvey Henderson, a resident of Allegheny and one of the attorneys for the plaintiff. Mr. Henderson said it is his opinion that annexation will take place sooner or later, but not until fair means are used to bring it about.

"The rights of property holders and free bridges between Pittsburgh and the North Side are chief among the important matters to be considered before Annexation to Pittsburgh can be brought about," said Mr. Henderson. "The purchase of the South Side water plant and the removal of the 'hump' without asking Allegheny taxpayers to help pay for them, will also have to be settled. Allegheny also owns its electric light plant and lights its streets for $20 a lamp cheaper than Pittsburgh, which purchases its light, and the North Side will not be annexed till the disposal of the plant is settled in Allegheny's favor. I would very much like to see a vote taken on the Goehring bill, providing Pittsburgh pays the cost."

Robinson Has Right Idea.

City Controller James Brown said the decision was all right. Allegheny is entitled to a separate vote on annexation. The methods used to bring Allegheny into the greater city, he said, were very rough.

Edward J. McIlvain, director of the department of public works, said when he heard the decision that he was pleased all over. The rights of the people of Allegheny have been vindicated, he said. Director McIlvain, who is very desirous of having the memorial to the soldiers and sailors of the civil war erected on Monument hill, Allegheny, believes that it will not be a hard matter to have the bill as passed by the last legislature providing for the memorial amended to allow it to be built in Allegheny. As the bill was passed it provides for the erection of the memorial in the county seat of Allegheny county, which is Pittsburgh.

City Treasurer Andrew L. Robinson said the defeat of the proposed greater city was the result of a battle of politicians. "There is no use in crying over 'spilt milk,' he said, "the greater Pittsburgh of necessity must come.

H. M. Davidson, collector of delinquent taxes, and Thomas B. Scandrett, director of the department of public safety, each expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the supreme court's decision. Scandrett said he will have a set piece containing the inscription in large letters, "Greater Allegheny," at the North Side Fourth of July celebration.

Wyman Could Not Be Found.

Mayor James G. Wyman, who declared himself in favor of the annexation of Allegheny to Pittsburgh while the Cook bill was in the legislature, could not be found yesterday. At his home it was said last night that he had not returned.

Many politicians of Allegheny were happy over the decision of the supreme court, as large sums of money had been staked on the opinion the court would hand down in the case. The odds were $100 to $60 that the decision would be against the Cook bill. It is said that about $25,000 changed hands yesterday and that in one Federal street saloon almost $10,000 had been bet on the result.

Aspirants for the Allegheny mayoralty are encouraged by the court decision. With the possibility of the North Side remaining a separate municipality, a stiff fight will be made for the executive seat now held by James G. Wyman.

Between Murphy and Francies.

Three possible candidates are being discussed, with the probability of the field narrowing to two men, John R. Murphy, who represents the clique of politicians who secretly fought the Greater Pittsburgh legislation at Harrisburg and in the courts, is expected to become a candidate. He was the recorder under the "ripper" act and came back into public life last fall, when he was elected as one of the assemblymen from the North Side. He is said to be the choice of Wyman.

Political gossips are figuring that Postmaster John Francies will get into the mayoralty contest. So far he has not said that he intends being a candidate, but yesterday there were many predictions that he would become the real opponent of Murphy. While Charles F. Kirschler has long been an avowed candidate for mayor, the appearance of Murphy would cut into his preserves. It is for this reason that the political checker players of the North Side are disposed to make Murphy and Francies the real contestants. Should Wyman favor Murphy, the prospective candidacy of Director Scandrett, McIlvain and Hunneshagen would never get beyond the prospective stage.

Many Insurgents Are Killed

ST. PETERSBURG, June 22.—Bands of insurgents in the district of Scharonkhao, province of Erivan, trans-Caucasia, recently sacked and burned four Armenian villages. Subsequently the insurgents attacked Okhanoraschdu. The inhabitants repulsed the besiegers, killing 100 of them. Cossacks and other troops stationed at the village of Khoghendilan also repulsed an attack of insurgents, inflicting severe losses. The insurgent chiefs and mullahs were caught and executed.

Stream of Fire in Butler Street.

A leak in the gas main in Butler street, near Gatewood avenue, was ignited last night by a clear soul thrown from a passing car. For a time there was a stream of flame for a distance of 25 or 30 feet. Residents living nearby got shovels and piled dirt on the fire, but could not extinguish the blaze.

Reception to New Pastor.

The congregation of the Second United Presbyterian church of Wilkinsburg last night tendered a formal reception to the new pastor, the Rev. Thomas W. Edgar, who accepted a call to the pastorate last April from the First church of Cambridge.

SUPREME COURT DECIDES

ments are office holders and politicians. I believe that if a campaign of education is started and carried on successfully, a majority of the voters of Allegheny will favor annexation. If the business man favors it, I think the laboring man could, with safety, follow his lead. I am a big property owner in Allegheny, and I would not favor consolidation if I did not believe the advantages would compensate."

Procedure Under Goehring Act.

Under the Goehring act, a petition signed by five per cent of the qualified voters of Allegheny as shown by the last registry list must be presented to the quarter sessions court. As there were about 35,000 voters on the spring registry, it will require 1,750 signers. It would be easy to secure the signatures. After the filing of the petition, the councils of Pittsburgh have three months in which to accept or reject the proposition to annex. If councils disapprove the matter is dropped. If an election is ordered and a majority of the voters of Allegheny oppose annexation, another election cannot be held for two years. If Allegheny votes to come in the consolidation occurs on the first Monday of January following the election.

L. B. Cook, who fathered the Greater Pittsburgh bill, was surprised and disappointed. He had expected a favorable decision.

F. H. Buhl, of Borgs & Buhl, is a great friend of annexation.

"The action of the court will be a sore disappointment to many people in the two cities," said he. "We should now proceed, under the Goehring act. The people are thoroughly stirred, and the voters can be made to see the advantage of annexation."

Postmaster John Francies of Allegheny was a member of the legislature during the sessions of 1903 and 1905. He has this to say:

"In the session of 1903 I voted for the Goehring bill giving Allegheny a separate vote. In the last session I voted against the Cook bill. I think further comment is unnecessary."

Today's Reduced-Price Offerings.

Today various departments will try to outstrip their neighbors in the matter of quoting the most substantial underprices for midsummer goods of every class.

Due notice of this sale, which will include the hours of today and tomorrow until 5:30 P. M., was given in "The Gazette" of yesterday morning—published in advance, so that everybody would be cognizant of what was going on here today. It was especially intended to benefit residents of suburban towns. They can easily save all their expenses by attending today's or tomorrow's sale.

The underprices vary; for instance, 25c wash goods will be sold for 5c a yard, girls' summer dresses that were $2.50 will be sold for $1.00—75c and $1.00 Hassocks will be sold for 25c—these illustrations are given to show the ratio of reductions. In brief it may be pointed out that

Men's Clothing will be sold for about a third off,
Women's Summer Clothes for an average half,
Women's Oxfords for a third less,
Children's Outing Hats for an average half,
Women's Trimmed Millinery for less than half,

Haviland China Dinnerware for a third less,
Silks for a third less,
American Wash Goods for average half,
White Dress Cottons for an average half,
Imported Dress Cottons less than half,
Household Linens for a third less, and we could go on and point out any number of other things in which you would be interested.

Altogether, today is to be one of those days for saving quite a bit on each purchase made.

JOINS HIS AGED MOTHER IN SOME OTHER WORLD

John Antillio Takes Poison by the Side of His Parent's Corpse.

"Good-by, mother; it will not be long until I join you."

At the side of his mother's death bed, John Antillio, an Italian, listened to her last words. Three hours later he ended his life by drinking carbolic acid in his room at 63 Congress street. His mother, Mary A. Antillio, aged 70, died from the infirmities of age.

Antillio was 34 years old and a musician. His mother had been ill for several weeks. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning she died. Broken hearted over the death of his parent, Antillio drank carbolic acid and kept his parting promise with his mother. The mother and son lived together.

John Semeg, aged 21, of 12 Oak street, McKeesport, was struck and instantly killed at 2:10 p. m. yesterday by an eastbound freight train at Demmler station on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

The body of Frank Cousins, a negro, who was drowned by falling off the steamer Beauty Monday night near Rochester, was found at that place yesterday. It was thought he had been pushed into the water, but witnesses say the railing broke and he fell into the river.

James Dougherty, aged 48, a fireman on the steamer Little Fred, was drowned in the Monongahela river at the foot of Ferry street yesterday afternoon. He was in a yawl boat and was rowing ashore when the boat was struck by the steamer Frank Gilmore. The boat capsized, throwing Dougherty into the river.

Mrs. C. F. Geyer of 4751 Butler street last night asked the police and coroner to look for her son Harry, aged 10, who disappeared from home Tuesday and has not been seen since. His mother thinks he has been drowned.

CHEVRONS UPSIDE DOWN.

Criticism of the Uniform of the Pittsburgh Police Sergeants.

The new uniform worn by the police sergeants is being criticized. The chevrons have been placed on the sleeves with the point down, while it should point toward the shoulder.

At the close of the Mexican war congress passed a law directing that thereafter non-commissioned officers of the marine corps should wear the chevron with the point up as a mark of distinguished valor shown by the corps during the Mexican war and for the excellent service rendered by the corps. It was provided, however, that should the marine corps ever bring disgrace to the flag the chevrons should be turned point down. They are still point up.

About two years ago, when the subject of uniform changes was under consideration by the general staff of the army, it was decided that hereafter the chevrons of the non-commissioned officers of the army should also be worn point up, instead of point down, as they had been previously.

Threw Motorman Off Platform.

A car on the Braddock division of the Pittsburgh Railways lines got beyond the control of Motorman John Walsh, while descending the Munhall viaduct yesterday, and rounded the curve at the bottom of the viaduct with such force that Walsh and Thomas Simmen, a passenger on the front seat of the car, were thrown off. Walsh was cut and bruised on the head, but was able to continue his run. Simmen was taken to a physician's office.

"WHEELING SUNDAY SPECIAL."
New Train Leaves Pittsburgh Sunday Mornings, Returns in the Evening, Over Pennsylvania Lines.

An innovation in the Pittsburgh-Wheeling passenger service over the Pennsylvania Lines will be the establishment of "The Wheeling Sunday Special" beginning next Sunday, June 25. It will run through to Wheeling without a stop. This provides a special accommodation for passengers from Pittsburgh, permitting a through trip in short time to Wheeling without tiresome stops at way stations. The $1.00 round-trip Sunday excursion tickets to Wheeling will be good on "The Wheeling Sunday Special" as well as on train No. 219, leaving Pittsburgh 8:20 Sunday mornings, which will continue handling local business.

"The Wheeling Sunday Special" will leave Pittsburgh Union station 7 o'clock, Central time, every Sunday morning, and arrive at Wheeling 9 o'clock. Returning, the Sunday Special will leave Wheeling at 6:30 p. m. and reach Pittsburgh 8:30 p. m., stopping at Burgettstown, McDonald, Oakdale and Carnegie.

The establishment of this Sunday special train service by the Pennsylvania Lines allows much more time for the Sunday visits in Wheeling, about six hours more than heretofore, a feature certain to find favor at once with the many who wish to enjoy a Wheeling trip among the best Sunday outings offered in Pittsburgh.

CHARGE AGAINST WALLACE.

Police Superintendent Furnishes Bail for a Hearing and Says He Thinks Attorney Marron Is a Joke.

Supt. Wallace is in trouble again. Yesterday Amos A. Dachroth, the anti-graft agent, made information against him before Alderman Toole for disorderly conduct. Wallace gave bail for a hearing Saturday. The information was made at the suggestion of Attorney John Marron, who believes it was Wallace who was in Allegheny in company with Gladys Wilson June 8, and insulted Agent Dachroth in West Robinson street.

Wallace was vindicated at hearings held by Mayor Hays and Safety Director Moore. Wallace produced evidence to show he was not in Allegheny on that morning, and that the man who offended Dachroth was a person of similar appearance. Attorney Marron says he wants to see Wallace's double. Wallace was not concerned about the arrest, and said:

"I think it is a joke, and, as matter of fact, I have always considered Attorney Marron a joke."

MANY SUGGESTIONS FOR PUNISHING WIFE-BEATERS

Burgess W. Shaler Ross, of Homestead, who it was recently announced was considering offering a prize for the best method of punishing wife beaters, has been flooded with suggestions. A majority of the letters are from women and the suggestions run from public whipping posts to branding the wife beater with hot irons.

EXPERTS TO CONFER WITH MR. FRICK TODAY

Director Bigelow Says That He Will Hold a Conference Concerning Hump Reduction.

Henry C. Frick did not return to Pittsburgh yesterday. Director E. M. Bigelow expects him today, and will then confer with him concerning the "hump."

Andrew W. Mellon, who saw Mr. Frick in the east, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday and Director Bigelow had a talk with him, but declined to discuss what occurred. After the meeting he said the prospects for the "hump" project were better than they were on Wednesday.

Mayor Hays is of the opinion Mr. Frick is not interested in the reduction of the "hump." Controller Larkin says he does not intend to try to persuade Mr. Frick to agree to the original plans.

Health Board Appointments.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—Dr. Samuel G. Dickson, the new health commissioner of Pennsylvania, today announced the appointment of Dr. Benjamin Lee of Philadelphia, who was for the last 20 years secretary of the former state board of health, to be assistant to the commissioner, and Dr. Frederick C. Johnson of Bradford, McKean county, to be chief of the division of inspection, quarantining and disinfecting.

Friday, June 23, 1905.

Literary censorships are of doubtful value in most cases. One may heartily approve the purpose of the Pennsylvania railroad in excluding the sale of trashy stories on its trains, yet may question its utility. Persons who prefer that kind of reading are likely to obtain it elsewhere and carry it on trains with them.

It will not be the fault of the health bureau if the ordinary crop of Fourth of July accidents is harvested in this city. The bureau has just sent out a warning circular, cautioning against particular devices that have been most deadly in the past. This warning should be heeded. It will not lessen the enjoyment of the occasion.

Pittsburgh is again treated to the spectacle of twin agitations for a reduction of 18 feet in the grade of Fifth avenue and an increase of that much and more on every thoroughfare leading to Allegheny. The inconsistency is the more marked because the paper that refers to Mr. Frick's action as an obstruction to progress is the chief advocate of the proposition to create several other "humps."

President Newman's announcement that the Twentieth Century train will be restored to a 20-hour run between New York and Chicago will surprise the public. He declares he does not believe the speed of the train was a contributing cause to the wreck. Such being the case abandonment of the new schedule is inconsistent. It must be taken to mean the high speed game is not worth the candle.

A spread of the Chinese boycott against American trade is noted in every mail from the orient, though its effect has not yet appeared in the export statistics. China is a vast country, and news spreads in it slowly. Once the movement has taken hold and shown its effects it will be just as slow work to overcome it. In this fact is found the reason for the urgent representations made to the president.

Allegheny General hospital will, this year, conduct a summer school in an effort to meet the increased demand for trained nurses. Scientific nursing is yearly becoming more popular with the people, so more trained nurses are needed. The schools should, however, impress on their pupils the fact that good, common sense is a primary requisite, and that inordinate exactions will not promote their popularity or usefulness.

The breach between Mayor Dunne and former Mayor Harrison of Chicago has been widened by the wholesale removal of officeholders under the old Democratic administration. Some of the changes made are improvements, notably the selection of Miss Jane Addams as a member of the school board, but there have been evidences of the Hearst faction dictation. Against an attempt to remove the chief of the fire department the underwriters recorded an effective protest, and the matter is still in abeyance.

Visitors to the Lewis and Clark exposition are said to be surprised at the number and luxuriance of the roses that greet them in Portland. There are over 10,000,000 of these in bloom, and scarcely a house in that city is without its rose to greet the stranger. While the flower is common in Oregon its cultivation for this occasion has been planned for months. Shrubs have been systematically distributed and people instructed how to care for them, while the added appeal has been made to public spirit in order to make the city as attractive as possible. The display loses none of its merit because it was premeditated.

Under pressure Premier Balfour announced to the house of commons that further steps will be taken to investigate the military stores scandal. He promises a court with power to summon witnesses, administer oaths and punish perjury. This matter has taken a strong hold on British public opinion. Disclosures of the rottenness in Russian military contracts and their fatal consequences adds to the flame. Britons apprehend similar weakness in their own defensive and offensive equipment unless frauds are carefully sought and vigorously punished. The disposition to hold the ministry responsible is encouraged by the Liberals.

Greater Pittsburgh.

Greater Pittsburgh will not be accomplished by the Cook bill. The supreme court has declared that act in conflict with the constitution. There is no appeal. The word of the supreme court is law.

Greater Pittsburgh will not be abandoned—it is delayed, only. Proceedings may be started at once under the Goehring law. This law was amended this year allowing an election on petition of five per cent of the qualified electors of any city or borough desiring to be annexed to another municipality. Espien and McKees Rocks are going to join Pittsburgh under that law. Allegheny can do the same thing. It will not be difficult to obtain the necessary signatures to a petition.

While the decision of the supreme court in this case is a great disappointment, friends of the greater city must not become discouraged. There can be no serious doubt that popular sentiment on the North Side, the South Side and in the middle favors uniting the various municipalities constituting the Greater Pittsburgh. It is favored for sentimental, economic and commercial reasons. It will give greater prestige, better and cheaper government and attract increased trade. There are no good reasons in opposition. Petty politicians cling to their jobs and the prospect of jobs; grafters want to hold on to their graft. Few persons oppose the Greater Pittsburgh from disinterested motives, and there should be no cessation of effort to bring about the consolidation.

The Mentor Wreck.

The only apparent connection between the high speed of the Twentieth Century limited train and the wreck at Mentor, O., seems to be that it made that train the especial mark of train wreckers. The management of the Lake Shore railroad is satisfied the switch was thrown with malicious intent, the flyer being selected by the criminal in preference to the ordinary express train that preceded it. The attempt made to wreck the Pennsylvania "special" at Manor Tuesday morning appears to have been similarly prompted.

It is an open question whether the high speed added to the fatalities and horrors of the wreck. Naturally the shock is greater at a speed of 75 miles an hour than at 60. Yet the slower trains are usually longer and heavier, which tends to equalize the momentum. It is less profitable to speculate on this question than to consider means for prevention of similar disasters in the future. The interlocking switches used on the Pennsylvania railroad preclude the possibility of just such an accident as that at Mentor, for they cannot be turned by malicious outsiders. The Pennsylvania system of track-walking frustrated the dastardly attempt of Tuesday morning, but it cannot be claimed it is so effective as to render impossible a wreck from obstructions placed on the track.

There is some slight increase in danger to high-speed trains from ordinary causes, but it is hardly worth considering, being compensated by extra care. The equipment is of the best and more precautions are taken. The average speed of the Twentieth Century train is about 53½ miles an hour. It will run much faster on some portions of the road. Ordinary trains frequently go at 60 miles an hour, or even more, when making up lost time. The specials are least likely to have delays that compel the recovery of lost time, so they are little, if any, more given to dangerous speeds. In the matter of train wrecking they are more exposed than ordinary trains because they are given more public attention, and the ignorant imagine they run much faster. A few detections and convictions will eliminate that hazard.

Cotton, North and South.

An exhaustive study on the conditions of cotton manufacture in the north as compared with the south has been published by the Massachusetts bureau of statistics of labor. The conclusions reached are the same which have been familiarly urged ever since the industry became active in the south, and these favor greater attention to the finer grades of cotton manufacture, as better suited to the average equipment of northern cotton mills. It is admitted the production of cotton, coal, iron and lumber in the south gives the manufacturers an advantage that those in Massachusetts do not possess and that labor is not well enough organized in North Carolina and Georgia to enforce restrictions on the employment of child labor or to limit the hours for adults. The report admits that with the depletion of the local supply of white labor in cotton mills foreigners will be imported so that similar conditions will ultimately prevail north and south.

The interesting fact is disclosed that in spite of the proximity of the cotton fields to the southern manufacturer the Massachusetts capitalist pays less for his raw material, owing to the fact that he has more money and can make better terms, being able to wait for delivery. With continued prosperity of the south this difference will soon disappear. In the competition between the mills in the two sections ultimate success will be due to skillful workmanship and capable management. These factors will count more than proximity of cotton fields if the rivalry is to continue between the sections, but it is more probable that manufacturing cotton will adjust itself to the two localities in a peaceful division of the labor, sure to be stimulated by the increase in foreign trade.

Hendricks' Report.

All of the findings of the Frick committee are fully sustained by the preliminary report made by Insurance Commissioner Hendricks to Gov. Higgins. Commissioner Hendricks goes farther and points out the reprehensible practices complained of began early in the history of the Equitable society. James Hazen Hyde enlarged the system inaugurated by his father.

Commissioner Hendricks disapproves the purchase of the controlling stock by the Ryan syndicate and declares the only adequate remedy for conditions shown is in complete mutualization. On this point there may be controversy. Mr. Hendricks will continue his investigation, and he intimates there may be equally sensational disclosures in the future. Meantime, Paul Morton, chairman of the board, has begun an inquiry of his own into the methods of the society that will be useful in the reorganization he contemplates.

Many persons are coming to the conclusion arrived at by President Roosevelt that nothing short of national supervision will meet all of the contingencies suggested by the Equitable scandal. Regular expert inspection, full publicity and restriction of the powers of insurance managers are the necessary adjuncts to honest administration and reduction in the cost of insurance to policy-holders. This is as clearly indicated by the Hendricks report as by that of the Frick committee.

Separate, but Agreed.

There is reason to expect, now that King Oscar of Sweden has reached the sensible conclusion that Norway cannot be held by force, the two countries will settle their affairs to their mutual advantage. They will have separate governments—Norway is fully determined on that. Yet they may remain united as formerly to resist aggression of other powers. Their interests lie so manifestly in maintaining good relations between themselves and in union for mutual defense that so calm and sensible a people as the Scandinavians can hardly overlook the fact in their negotiations.

King Oscar's backdown from the attitude adopted on the first notice of separation from the Norwegian storthing has been complete, though not altogether graceful. It has opened the way for the friendly negotiations so evidently desired by the people of both countries. The result is likely to be the creation of a closer sympathy between the two separate nations than ever existed between the two branches of the dual monarchy.

The Czar and the Censor.

Nicholas II. is commonly regarded as an autocrat whose will is the supreme law in Russia, but a story told in the July Century, in an article on "The Future of Poland," indicates that the czar is but a small potato as compared with the censor. There have been many stories told about the censor, but David Bell MacGowan's is quite the most astonishing. It happened a few months ago, on the occasion of the emperor's visit to some provincial town in Poland to review troops leaving for Manchuria. The editor of the local newspaper told Mr. MacGowan that he had spent from noon until midnight getting his majesty's address properly censored by the authorities. He went to bed tired but happy in the confident expectation that everything was all right. What was his surprise to find the next day that the emperor's speech had been omitted! He went to see the censor and demanded an explanation.

"Yes, I know the generals with his majesty and the governor had all given their consent to the publication of the speech," the censor coolly replied, "but I did not think his majesty ought to have spoken as he did, and I could not be responsible for it."

What doth it profit a man if he be czar of all the Russias and can't get his speeches printed? Nicholas might condole with the revolutionists who are continually clamoring for liberty of the press. But this would be an affront to the august censor, who might thenceforth disclaim responsibility. The revolutionists, however, should do less complaining if they realized that the czar himself, when he wishes to say what he thinks, must send it to the London Punch, forging the signature of "Pro Bono Publico" or "Constant Subscriber."

If young Mr. Zeigler looks like his pictures that are printed in the newspapers it is to be hoped that he will not take a notion to ship on one of the vessels bound for the North Pole.

Russia's envoy is a gentleman by the name of Nelidoff. Now if he will only take the lid off his services may be of some value.

The courtship between Pittsburgh and Allegheny has been rudely disturbed, but love laughs at courts as well as at locksmiths.

Miss Allegheny assures us that there is no rival for her affections. It is simply a question of parental interference.

Ex-Secretary Morton will ride on the Equitable train with a pass in his pocket signed by President Roosevelt.

The municipal question is "hump," but all the Dispatch and Leader seem to get out of it is "bump."

The hopes of the coal men and the water stage seem to be rising in about the same proportion.

A boat or a mackintosh as wedding presents are the real thing this June.

The supreme court seems to be opposed to courting as well as union.

An exchange remarks that "June is a bird." Yes, a rain crow.

"Dear Bill:" Why not duck?

The ox eye daisies blossom,
On the distant hills of blue,
And the small boy's stone bruise paineth,
As he wades their snow-depth through.
The cat bird whispers lullabies
In the hedge row, dark and cool,
While the small boy dodges out of sight
In the old field swimmin' pool.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS

By ERASMUS WILSON.

"Well, what are you going to do about it?" asks one of our preacher friends.

"You seem to take a good deal of pleasure in rapping us over the knuckles, or ripping us up the back, as the saying goes, and we can't say that you are always wrong, nor always right.

"But, do you think it quite fair to hold the pastor of a congregation solely responsible for its prosperity and success? Are not the members individually responsible and should they not bear a share of the burden?

"What would you do if you were a preacher and had a congregation of average people with no rich members to bear the brunt of the expense of maintaining the church? You must know that it takes a lot of money to maintain a church, particularly if you want to make it popular.

"In this morning's (Thursday) Gazette you made a few flings that hurt some of us, particularly your references to prayer and prayer meetings. We are commanded to pray, and that unceasingly, and to ask for what we want, and we have the promise that we shall get it, if we ask in faith, believing that Our Father will give it to us.

"Anyway, what are you going to do about it, or what think you we should do about it?"

You may just as well pray the Lord to send roast birds and truffles, with choice dessert, as to pray for bread without plowing and planting and tending and reaping, or doing something equivalent thereto.

It is said that the birds, and the fowls of the air, are fed, and they don't have to sow and to reap.

Not exactly, but they have to keep busy seeking for and picking up seeds and bugs and worms, and such things as constitute their food. If they don't do this they will die, and that without mercy, for such as they are not fit to live.

If a man does not live comfortably and well it is either because he is not fit to live, or too indifferent and careless to do that which will entitle him to live. In either case nature pronounces him unfit to live in comfort and contentment.

The prayers of such as these are unheard and that for which they ask will not be given, because they do not ask in faith, believing that it will be given in accordance with prescribed conditions.

What think you, that your trespasses will be forgiven if you forgive not those who trespass against you?

And so it is that every promise has its conditions, but we are much inclined to remember the promise and forget the conditions.

Now, when you come to think of it, are you really entitled to anything you are not worthy of? Is there anything coming to you that you have not fully earned by complying with the terms on which it was offered?

What is to be done about it?

Why, get busy, the same as successful people do when they discover something that is worth while doing.

When a practical man sees something that he wants he sets about getting it in a practicable way; that is, he asks for it in faith, believing that he will get it if he complies with the conditions on which it is offered or may be obtained.

What think you of a young man who wants an education, sitting down and moaning and wailing because somebody doesn't give him the price thereof? Where would some of our greatest men have been if they acted thus? If you have read the lives of America's good and great men you will remember that many of them were poor boys. They wanted education because they needed it, and they got it. Among these were such men as Benjamin Franklin and James A. Garfield.

The poverty that enshrouded them when they were born was the making of them men, strong, practical, forceful men.

It is opposition that makes men strong, not only physically, but morally, and spiritually. Without something to call forth his strength a man would never know how strong he is. And if he refuses to meet opposition, and persistently declines the gauntlet thrown down by adversity, he will never amount to anything, but always remain a weakling, with his inherent strength undeveloped, which is much the same as allowing capital to remain unemployed.

The man who says he wants a thing and doesn't get it, only thinks he wants it.

There are a lot of people who only think they want to be good and useful.

We may just as well get down to business in the matter of reforming men and bettering the condition of the world, and get busy, too, for we have been monkeying with the work too long already. We have been playing at reform, and instead of getting busy and working after a business-like fashion, we are sitting here gazing up into heaven expecting the desired manna to fall into our open mouths.

Manna does not and will not fall as long as there is food within our reach, even though it be as far away as Egypt. And if we don't reach for it, and reach in the right manner, we will famish, and that without mercy.

The trouble with a great many churches and other religious institutions is that they are simply gazing up to heaven and waiting for something to happen, in fact, waiting for a miracle to be wrought, for it certainly would be a miracle were heaven to give them all they ask.

A miracle, you know, is something wrought contrary to the laws of nature, or at least in an unusual manner.

To answer the average prayer that is sent toward heaven would necessitate the violation of nearly every one of heaven's laws.

Fortunately the words uttered, nor the form of the prayer ever reaches heaven, only the spirit of it. Some of those who are proud of their ability to make strong and long prayers may be greatly disappointed to learn that not one of them has ever been heard in heaven, although the motives and the innermost feelings of the petitioners are well known.

"I must be about my Father's business," said the Master, and then he went forth doing good to those who needed it, giving to them that had not, and taking from them that had much.

All promises are to those who do something for the benefit of their fellow men, and not to those who selfishly do things for their own personal benefit.

The church, or other organization, that works solely, or mainly, for the benefit of itself, and to aid its own members, is not likely to succeed, because the true mission of the church, and of all other humane institutions, is to supply the needs of those who are not able to care for themselves as they should be cared for.

The work of the members of all such organizations lies outside and among those who need their aid and assistance to help them to help themselves. The church is the home, or mother house into which the weak and needy are brought to be strengthened and fitted to go forth into the world to work their way onward and upward to the full stature of men, or as nearly as they are able to approximate this stature.

Too often these institutions develop or rather decline into mutual admiration societies, and they feast and revel among themselves, whereas, the Master said for them to go into the highways and byways and gather to the feast those who are hungry, and to the revels those who are despondent, and to the comforts of the home those who are lonesome and weary.

Thus we see that what is to be done about it is to get busy in a business-like way.

TALKED OF IN GOTHAM

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—Scarcely anything is talked of in New York today but the wreck of the Twentieth Century limited at Mentor. The death of men so prominent that their names at least are known to everyone in the city, causes a feeling of personal loss that does not come in cases of wrecks under ordinary circumstances. The extra fare charged on the fast train between this city and Chicago makes it certain that when such a wreck does occur, only men of prominence and high financial standing are likely to be victims. In the death of Judge John R. Bennett, New York loses one of her most prominent and useful citizens, and he is so well known in all walks of life that a feeling of sadness seems to pervade the entire city.

The question that now agitates the people is, will the 18-hour schedule be abandoned as a result of the disaster? This has even President Newman of the New York Central in a quandary. When asked the question he hesitated before replying, and then said:

"I felt from the beginning that a slower train would be more comfortable for passengers. What we learned, however, was that the passengers saw no difference between the comforts of the 24-hour train and the 18-hour train. I believe with all railroad men, that trains go a little too fast. We do not consider the 18-hour train extra hazardous, however, or we would not have established it."

One thing seems to be certain, that the accident will have a tendency to make the fast train less popular—something to be used only in cases of emergency.

Politeness Pays Large Dividends.

An official of the Fifth Avenue bank, which the other day announced an extra dividend of 120 per cent, making total dividends for the year 220 per cent, when asked the secret of the company's great success, replied:

"Politeness. Our employes are instructed to pay particular attention to the wants of our women customers, and the deposits of women in our bank are larger than in any other bank in the city."

The result of this politeness and special attention to women is that most of the wealthy women of the Fifth avenue district are depositors in the Fifth Avenue bank. And some of them carry very large balances at all times. Should an employe be disagreeable to one of the bank's customers it would be equal to handing in his resignation. Patience is also largely required. And the women are thoroughly loyal to the Fifth Avenue bank, despite the fact that the company never pays interest on deposits, no matter how long the money may be left in its vaults.

Jerome Jumps Into the Breach.

You can always depend upon District Attorney Jerome bobbing up at the opportune moment. Today was his opportunity to get into the Equitable muddle, and he did it with a flourish. As soon as the newspapers appeared with the report of Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks, Mr. Jerome telegraphed the superintendent to forward to Gov. Higgins copies for him (the district attorney) to base future action on. And this despite the fact that the governor had all the copies of the report he could conveniently find use for long before they reached the offices of the newspapers. While no one can question the sincerity of the district attorney, many people are inclined to wonder if he doesn't "play to the grandstand" just a little, after all.

Hard Lines for the Small Boy.

These are trying times for the small boy of New York. Today five policemen in plain clothes started out to round up everyone who lights a firecracker before the Fourth of July. Now the boys see in every stranger a possible emissary of Commissioner McAdoo, and unless they want to take a chance on being given a ride in the hurry-up wagon they must bottle up their patriotic enthusiasm and hold it for the Fourth, which is still nearly three weeks off. Meanwhile it is pretty difficult to prevent a premature explosion.

Would See "Joe" Jefferson in Bronze.

New Yorkers would take kindly to the proposition for a statue of Joseph Jefferson in bronze in his favorite character of Rip Van Winkle, only they would demand that the memorial be erected in the Metropolis. Gothamites claim all the greatness in the country, and they make no exception in this case, although the actor's greatest love was wrapped up in his homes at Buzzards Bay and in Florida. New York was only an incident in his life. Still New Yorkers would be slow to contribute to a statue, unless it should be planned to erect in it a prominent place in this city.

Plea for the Sea Gulls.

The Audobon society has just issued a plea for the preservation of the sea gulls, which are in a fair way of becoming extinct, being slain in great numbers that their plumes may grace ladies' hats. The only way to save them, says the appeal, is to place wardens at the breeding grounds to drive off the hunters. The society now has 40 of these wardens at different points, but others are needed, and the society is trying to raise funds to employ at least 300 more men. "The seashore without the sea birds would be like a garden without flowers or a landscape without trees," says the appeal.

Peers With American Wives.

Since 1840 26 (British) peers or eldest sons of peers have married in the United States. Of these 13 have no children at all, five have no sons and five have only one son. The total number of peers' children with American mothers is 22, of whom 13 are sons. During the same period 23 peers or eldest sons of peers have married in the colonies. Four have no children, seven have one son, eight have two sons and two have three sons.—Fortnightly Review.

THE BOWEN VERDICT

Points Its Own Moral.

From the New York Tribune.

According to the findings of Secretary Taft, as clearly recapitulated by the president, Mr. Bowen displayed a singular misconception of official duty and an inexcusable disregard of diplomatic propriety—indicating his unfitness for further employment by the government. Nor can it be overlooked that Mr. Loomis, while absolutely cleared of charges of dishonesty, does not escape censure for indiscretion. Cruel and reckless as the charges were, the president and Secretary Taft agree that he was indiscreet in placing himself, however innocently, in a position which might seem to lend color to whatever attacks an enemy might make upon him. To paraphrase the closing sentences of Secretary Taft's report, it is sincerely to be hoped that the bitter experience of both parties to this unhappy controversy will make it unnecessary further to point the moral of the case.

Correspondence Used in Evidence.

From the New York Herald.

Even if Mr. Loomis were guilty the president contends that Mr. Bowen's conduct would be unpardonable. The evidence of the Herald's special correspondence is quoted at length in the findings. To what extent Mr. Loomis' usefulness has been impaired by the scandal is a matter for future consideration, but the action of the government as it stands is a demonstration of the good that can be done by a newspaper which, untrammelled by any ties, sets out to obtain regardless of expense the news for its readers and the public without fear or favor.

Betrayed by Newspapers.

From the Baltimore American.

It is easy to understand how the fiery president of Venezuela writhed under the proddings of a man who believed as implicitly in himself, or how offenses, trivial in themselves, which would not have been noticed by another, assumed exaggerated proportions in his imaginations. The ex-minister had good points; but coupled with his colossal egotism, they make him more unfit for employment in the diplomatic service. After he had refused to tender his resignation the president could not do otherwise than dismiss him. He himself furnished the most convincing evidence of his incompetency. One feature of the case will excite a certain amount of sympathy in the newspaper fraternity, and that is the betrayal of Mr. Bowen's confidence by men pretending to be journalists. It is an offense of very rare occurrence.

Good Effect on Service.

From the Washington Star.

The finding that Mr. Loomis was indiscreet in his business dealings in Venezuela, coupled with a full and hearty exoneration from all charges of corrupt or dishonest action, shows the wide scope of the official inquiry, and the painstaking minuteness with which the judicial scales have been in this case balanced. The summary and deserved dismissal of Mr. Bowen, after weeks of patient inquiry, as well as the mild admonition of the capable assistant secretary of state, should have a good effect upon the diplomatic service in reminding all members of their grave responsibilities and of the high standards which will be applied in passing judgment upon their official and private conduct.

Bowen Lacked Courtesy.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mr. Loomis as first assistant secretary of state, being in the absence of Secretary Hay, the head of the department, every rule of official proceeding and courtesy requiring of Mr. Bowen that a matter so gravely affecting the character of his superior and the good name of the government should have been made in due form and through the proper channel to the president or to Judge Taft, who, in the president's absence, was in temporary charge of the department. It devolved upon Judge Taft to deal officially with the matter and he summoned Mr. Bowen from Venezuela to Washington to substantiate his charges against Secretary Loomis.

A House-Cleaning.

From the Cleveland Leader.

Bowen's removal is house-cleaning. It scrubs out an ill-smelling corner of the state department. The public service is left sounder and better by the dismissal of a man who carried unproved and, in the main, false charges against a fellow-servant of the government to the newspapers rather than to his official superiors.

Loomis Escaped Too Easily.

From the Philadelphia Record.

But while dismissal cannot be regarded as too great a penalty for Mr. Bowen's misconduct, Assistant Secretary Loomis seems to have escaped too easily. Though the main charges of Mr. Bowen were not proven, there were others less serious, but still serious enough to merit something more than a mild reprimand. A diplomatic representative abroad has no business to be interested in schemes of flotation and exploitation launched by his fellow countrymen; particularly in a country like Venezuela, which seems to be in the class of countries whose public contracts frequently become the subjects of diplomatic intervention. To call such actions on the part of a plenipotentiary "indiscretions" is to give a very favorable construction to them.

Loomis Showed a Lack of Balance.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

The charge that Loomis was corrupt was, it appears, cruelly false, but, none the less, the very worst possible construction will be placed on Loomis' comparatively innocent transactions by Castro's people and by South Americans generally, who are in the habit of denouncing the people of the United States as beings whose insolence is only exceeded by their dishonest rapacity. Loomis was not a "grafter," but he has certainly shown a lack of balance and judgment which disqualifies him utterly to hold an important diplomatic post.

Loomis Unscathed.

From the Philadelphia Record.

Mr. Loomis has, as Secretary Taft points out, been imprudent. He has made indiscreet investments, and while minister associated himself with enterprises liable to come before the legation of which he was the head. But his personal honor and his official integrity are not impeached by these things. After an exhaustive investigation he is pronounced without blame or reproach by Secretary Taft, whose experience, acumen and judicial impartiality in a case of this sort will be implicitly trusted by the public.

PICKED UP IN LOBBIES.

Summering in the Mountains.

That the mountains, right out with nature to her best estate, make the ideal spot for a summer vacation sojourn of from two or three days to half a dozen weeks, will be affirmed by thousands who have spent their vacations from "the pass that kills" to the city, out in the open in the past few years. There were two men at the Pittsburgh hotels yesterday who make a plea for such a vacation life. Locke Thompson, the genial proprietor of the Hotel Thompson at the little Allegheny valley town of Templeton, who is at the Seventh Avenue hotel while looking after business matters in Pittsburgh, says that each year sees familiar faces returning and new ones appearing for the brief or long vacation jaunt along the river and on the hills. Mr. Thompson, by the way, is agent for the Pennsylvania railroad at Templeton and he says there will soon be a new line of railroad near Templeton, but what interests are backing the new road he does not know. It is the Brookville & Mahoning railroad, which will extend down the Mahoning creek to the Allegheny river at Mahoning, crossing to the west side of the river at that point and continuing southward to Freeport. It will not only reach a productive lot of coal mines along the Allegheny, but will also open a large coal, fire clay and undeveloped belt along the creek. The grading for this road was started a couple of days ago.

On the Blue Juniata.

The other man who believes in mountain vacation haunts is W. H. Kurtz, sales agent of the Reading stove works and a resident of Huntingdon. Mr. Kurtz was at the Hotel Anderson. He says that although business is generally reported only moderately fair this summer, the business people here expected this and they expect just as confidently that the autumn trade in all lines will be brisk enough to make up fully for the slack summer season. Speaking of the town of Huntingdon, which used to be known as "Standing Stone" because of the Indians having left a large stone column standing, Mr. Kurtz says that no more delightful place could be desired for a good summer rest than right down in the mountains and along the Juniata river, the "Blue Juniata" made famous by the song of the fabled Indian maiden Alfarata. No more beautiful, although some grander scenery is to be found in the east. But out at the old "Forge," up on Tussey, or out on Terrace mountain, along Raystown branch, a wild mountain stream of electric note and abounding in wily trout, at Villa Delight, a small family outing place along Raystown branch—any of these places would make a delightful outing point for recreative rest.

The town of Huntingdon is just now getting another industry, that of a horseshoe factory where horseshoes will be turned out ford and calked ready to fit to the horse's hoof and be nailed. This is a new phase of making horseshoes. The first shoes were turned out a few days ago and within 60 days it is expected the plant will be turning out all kinds of shoes for horses, mules and ponies. The town also has one of the largest stationery plants in the country, the Blair establishment, and is the seat of one of Pennsylvania's leading smaller colleges, Juniata. There are also good public schools, and while the people are satisfied with the town and their quiet life, there is a healthy civic spirit.

Pittsburgh Gets New Citizen.

Pittsburgh gains a citizen of which it may well be proud in the person of H. A. Worthington, who was recently elected first vice president of the Wabash and who has been living at the Hotel Schenley since he took up his duties here a few weeks ago. Mr. Worthington, however, prefers having his family about him and last evening he went to Chicago to meet his wife and children who have been enjoying a visit to the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland. They will return on Saturday and in a short time will take up their residence in one of the beautiful East End homes.

Preparing Sponges for Market.

As soon as the sponges are brought aboard they are thrown in heaps on deck near the scuppers, where the barefooted sailors tramp and work out the ooze; then, strung on lines, they are soused over the side, and trail overboard some 16 hours during the night. To break and separate from them shellfish and other parasites, they are beaten with heavy sticks on deck or on the reef rocks off Tripoli, and after being well soaked in the sea again, many are bleached by being immersed in a tub of water containing a certain solution of oxalic acid, from which they emerge a yellowish color, care having been taken to avoid burning them.—Harper's Magazine.

Each Believes He Was Right.

"We go to our graves feeling that we were right," said Gen. Stephen D. Lee, in his address to the old confederate veterans at Louisville. Which is a perfectly natural feeling. PARTY LEADERS IN CONFERENCE

Republican Advisory Committee Devotes Time to Considering Local Political Situation.

FUSIONISTS HAVE A MEETING

The Republican county advisory committee held a two hours' session yesterday afternoon at the Grant street headquarters. The general local political situation was discussed and numerous plans for the future were considered.

Among other questions under consideration was that of the proposed change in the party rules. While there was much friendly disposition shown for the modified Crawford county system of nominating, the impression prevails that sufficient time should be given to a consideration of making radical changes in the party laws. The joint rules committee will meet this afternoon and the county committee tomorrow afternoon.

The Citizens and Democratic fusion committees held a long conference in the Third avenue headquarters yesterday afternoon. The division of places as decided on by the Democrats at their meeting Wednesday was approved by the Citizens and so were the Democratic nominees. The Citizens will name candidates for recorder, controller, one commissioner, prothonotary, treasurer and a director of the poor. It was practically decided yesterday to give the nomination for prothonotary to a representative of the labor organizations. So far no name has been mentioned. J. D. O'Neil will be named for recorder, R. J. Cunningham for controller, and Reid Kennedy for treasurer. The Citizens' nominee for commissioner will probably be an old soldier.

The Citizens county convention will be held Tuesday. In order to have the slate ready for ratification a conference of the joint conferees will be held Monday afternoon. The ticket will then be completed.

There was a report yesterday that the judges had decided they would not appoint the board of assessment and revision of taxes as provided for by a recent act of assembly. According to the report the commissioners have been so advised and told to proceed with the assessment of taxes under the old laws. One of the judges denies the rumor and says the question has not been finally decided. If the courts refuse to appoint, steps will probably be taken to have the constitutionality of the act determined.

POOR TIME TO THE CITY.

Residents of the Twenty-Seventh Ward and Lower St. Clair Township Want Better Traction Service.

Citizens of the Twenty-seventh ward and Lower St. Clair township met in the Bane school house last night to protest against poor street car accommodations in that district. Joseph McClure presided and a committee of 10 was appointed to prepare a petition to be presented to the Pittsburgh Railways Company, asking for relief.

A population of 15,000 is dependent on the street cars for transportation to the city, and it was stated that because of the poor service they all could walk to the city in less time than they can ride there by the present arrangements. Since the cars have nearly all been routed through the Mount Washington tunnel the people in that section of the city are dependent on a line running over Brownsville avenue. At Arlington avenue that line stops, and they have to transfer to a car that runs from Clover street to the end of the line, or at the head of the incline they must transfer to a car on Beltzhoover avenue. These cars run but once in 15 minutes, and when one is missed it means a 15-minute wait.

It is the purpose of the committee to petition the company to put on more transfer cars, run them quicker or, what is more desirable, run the cars from the end of the line, through the tunnel into the city. Some of the residents make better time by taking the incline to Carson street and coming into the city thence by the Birmingham line.

NOT BURGLARS IN SKIRTS.

Girls Are Arrested While Trying to Get Into a Relative's House Early in the Morning.

Bessie Hall, aged 16, of Tarentum, and Carrie Paine, aged 18, of Kittanning, were arrested yesterday morning in Tarentum on a charge of attempted housebreaking. Last evening Justice A. B. Bell decided to hold them in jail for a short time before sending them to the reform school.

The girls were breaking glass in a window in Mrs. Cora Coppersmith's home in Second avenue at 3:30 a. m., when James Baird was awakened by the noise. Thinking the girls were burglars in women's guise, he fired two shots from his revolver at them, when they disappeared. Miss Hill explained their conduct by saying she was a sister of Mrs. Coppersmith, into whose house they were making entrance, and that they had been at a New Kensington carnival the preceding night.

Unable to enter their own homes when they returned at an early hour yesterday morning, they thought it would not be wrong to spend the rest of the night in her sister's home, as Mrs. Coppersmith was at Niagara Falls.

Homestead Has a Site Problem Too.

So many sites for the proposed high school building to be erected in Homestead have been offered that the school board is very much divided and from present indications the matter of selecting a location will be a long drawn out affair. Sites have been offered at prices ranging from $30,000 to $40,000.

Italian Lad May Be Deported.

RETAIL COAL MEN MAKE RIVER TRIP

All Day and Much of Evening Given Over to Inspection of Industries.

HOMESTEAD A FASCINATION

To the 400 members attending the convention of the New York and Pennsylvania Retail Coal association and their hosts, of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, yesterday was made a red-letter day by a boat excursion, which started in the forenoon and was not concluded until late last night.

As this was the last day of the visitors at Pittsburgh, their hosts spared no efforts to give it every attractive feature that could be devised. On the steamer Island Queen, chartered for the occasion, two dinners were served, one at noon and one at 6 o'clock. An orchestra and a quartet were engaged to enliven the trip. The boat was well stocked to add to the merriment and although all the scheduled route was abandoned, the visitors started for their beds last evening with no sense of any good thing lost.

It was the trip to the Homestead steel works that caused the change of program. The big plant consumed nearly three hours of time. The visitors found intensely interesting things there, and when the boat started away it was promptly called back to the wharf to take on board some who had been delayed. Again it made a start and again was forced to return, about 150 members of the party having stayed too long at the works.

The boat continued up the river to Elizabeth. The operation of the river tipples was explained and the mines of the Pittsburgh Coal Company and its sister, the River Coal Company, were pointed out. The building of steamers at the Elizabeth ways was also shown and between the times of dining and other festivities, some pretty solid information was given the retail coal men.

The river trip was in charge of Capt. John Morin, superintendent of transportation of the River Coal concern. In direct charge of the party were J. P. Walsh, general manager of sales of the Pittsburgh Coal Company; George W. Schluederberg, general manager of mines, and a score of other prominent officials.

The entertaining company performs today the farewell act of hospitality by taking the visitors back to their homes in a special train duplicating that on which they were brought to Pittsburgh. The train will leave the Lake Erie station at 9:30 this morning, and will run through to Buffalo, making stops at Youngstown, Ashtabula, Erie and Dunkirk.

DAUGHTER DID NOT COME.

Father Searched Steamer in Vain for 20-Year-Old Girl He Had Not Seen Since Her Infancy.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(Special.)—Among those who watched the White Star Line steamship Teutonic dock today was W. G. Lewis, a contractor, of 51 New street, Washington, D. C. He was down to meet his 20-year-old daughter, Mary, whom he had not seen since he left Wales, nearly 20 years ago. He had sent the girl a cabin ticket on the Teutonic and had asked her to wear a red ribbon so that he would know her, but no passenger thus distinguished was visible, nor was her name on the ship's lists.

Mr. Lewis came from North Wales to make his fortune when the daughter was only two months old. She remained with grandparents, and later completed her education in England.

LOCOMOTIVE DAMAGED BY STRIKING WOMAN

BEAVER, June 22.—(Special.)—Mrs. Mary Burnett, who weighs about 200 pounds, was carrying a pail of water along the Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad when a freight train came up behind yesterday, at Industry. The engineer jammed the air on hard bringing his train to a stop, but not before the fender had rolled the woman to one side. She arose and went on her way. It was found that the quick stop had buckled the cars against the engine with such force, that a half hour was consumed before the locomotive would move.

William G. Theurer Arrested.

WASHINGTON, PA., June 22.—(Special.)—William G. Theurer, a former star athlete at Washington and Jefferson college, now manager of the Washington district for the Central District and Printing Telegraph Company, and James Mitchell, a lineman, were today held for court under bail, charged with cutting the lines of the State Mutual Telephone Company, which recently established an independent service here.

Morningside Wants Improvements.

At a meeting last night of the Morningside Civic club a constitution and by-laws to govern the organization was adopted. President Frank H. Walton and Col. Frank J. Rutledge made addresses on the needs of improvement in the district, referring especially to the necessity of paving Chauncey street and Morningside avenue, bridges to reach the Highland park district and a street car line to reach the park. A petition asking for these improvements will be presented to councils.

MAYER PROMISES SPEEDY ACTION

New York's Attorney General Will Bring Equitable Affairs Before Him.

GOVERNOR PROMISES HIS AID

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—Attorney General Mayer arrived here from Washington tonight and will remain in town several days investigating Equitable affairs. Tonight Mr. Mayer said:

"Appropriate steps will be speedily taken by me to accomplish the return to the Equitable of any profits wrongfully made or retained by reason of trust relations, or otherwise; to debar from holding office in this company any person who has been faithless to his trust, or who violated any provision of law; to obtain an accounting for any waste, or misapplication of funds for any reason, or by any body.

"There are certain other matters of importance which I am studying, but to which it would be premature to refer in detail. It might be, for instance, to the interest of the policyholders to learn the character of and the occasion for some of the legal services paid for during the past few years. But above all inquiries as to alleged delinquencies, the greatest necessity of the situation is that the rights of the policyholders in all respects be ascertained clearly, and as completely and as quickly as is legally possible. In this and in other particulars I shall try my best to obtain results.

"If any crime has been committed by any body that situation is manifestly for the district attorney."

Dead Men on Salary.

In dissecting the report of Insurance Superintendent Hendricks on the Equitable scandal it has been developed that several names are in the table which show salaries paid for the last five years to persons who are either dead or who resigned before the Equitable trouble started.

The name of E. W. Lambert as chief medical examiner appears in the table as drawing $25,000 a year. Mr. Lambert died 13 months ago. Edward Curtis appears in the table as medical director at a yearly salary of $15,000. Mr. Curtis resigned 18 months ago.

Following up this line of inquiry, it develops that George H. Squire, who is a director, is listed in this table as drawing $20,000 a year as financial manager of the society. Mr. Squire, while remaining a director, resigned his position as financial manager in 1904 and entered the brokerage business with his son. He was succeeded as financial manager by H. Rogers Winthrop.

J. B. Loring appears in the table as registar at $3,500 a year. Mr. Loring resigned in April, 1903.

Officers of the society said today that possibly Mr. Hendricks had got hold of an old list.

August Belmont has tendered his resignation as director of the Equitable society to former President Grover Cleveland of the new board of Equitable trustees.

Governor Is Aroused.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 22.—That Gov. Higgins regards the report of Insurance Superintendent Hendricks upon the Equitable Life Assurance society as worthy of the attention of the criminal authorities of New York, was made plain by him today when he broke his silence on the subject of the Equitable situation by a reference to the commandment, "Thou shalt not steal," as having been among the laws violated in the management of the insurance company, and by the announcement that he had sent a copy of the report to District Attorney Jerome. The text of the letter follows:

"I herewith inclose for your consideration a copy of the preliminary report of the superintendent of insurance upon the affairs of the Equitable Life Assurance society of New York. The findings set forth in the report are based on evidence taken by the superintendent under the insurance laws. If, in your judgment, any of the alleged facts established by legal evidence, would constitute criminal misconduct in the county of New York on the part of any person, I will, if you desire, request the superintendent to submit to you the evidence taken before him."

The governor was asked tonight whether legislative action could be taken upon this report.

"This is only a preliminary report," he replied. "In my judgment the legislature should not and would not act before receiving the final report. The investigation of the case of the Mutual Life Insurance Company occupied between four or five months, and Mr. Hendricks tells me he believes the Equitable investigation will take as long. This, you see, would make it out of the question to submit the Equitable matter to the present extraordinary session."

Condemn Medical Advertisement.

The Evangelical Lutheran ministers of the Pittsburgh district of the Missouri synod have followed the example of other ministerial bodies in passing resolutions condemning the publication in newspapers of advertisements of "a class of lying and morally misleading sharks and medical quacks." The resolutions are strong and carry the request that all good citizens refuse admission into their homes of such papers as "heedlessly continue to receive these offensive advertisements."

Robert McDonald, pastor of St. Thomas' Catholic church, Frazier street, Braddock, was entered by a sneak thief yesterday morning and $28 in money and clothing and various articles, valued at $100, secured. The thief is thought to have been a woman, as a strange woman carrying a large bundle was seen leaving the house about the time the robbery is thought to have taken place.

CASSINI WILL HAVE NO PART IN NEGOTIATIONS

Russia May Name M. Witte as Plenipotentiary—Britain Will Help the Armistice Movement.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 22.—The Russ says it is authorized to say that Count Cassini, the retiring Russian ambassador at Washington, will not participate in the peace negotiations, but will leave the United States immediately on the arrival of Baron Rosen, his successor. M. Witte may be one of the Russian plenipotentiaries if Japan names the Marquis Ito.

It is possible M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador at Paris, may not go to Washington. As dean of the Russian diplomatic corps he was the first choice of this foreign office, but he is of advanced age and his health is not robust. Besides, M. Nelidoff may ask to be relieved of his mission. In such an event it is considered certain Baron Rosen will be appointed.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—No assistance is expected in Washington from the London government in whatever efforts the president may initiate to bring an immediate armistice. The British officials believe, according to advices reaching this government, that Japan would be sacrificing a great deal to consent to an armistice.

AGONY OF SORE HANDS

Cracked and Peeled. Water and Heat Caused Intense Pain. Could Do No Housework.

VERY GRATEFUL TO CUTICURA

"My hands cracked and peeled, and were so sore it was impossible for me to do my housework. If I put them in water, I was in agony for hours; and if I tried to cook, the heat caused intense pain. I consulted two doctors, but their prescriptions were utterly useless. And now after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment my hands are entirely well, and I am very grateful. (signed) Mrs. Minnie Drew, 18 Dana St., Roxbury, Mass."

ANXIOUS TO HOLD ON TO ENGINEER WALLACE

He Will Be Met by Secretary Taft on His Arrival from Panama.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Secretary Taft will go to New York next Sunday to have a conference with Chief Engineer Wallace of the Panama canal commission regarding the report that Mr. Wallace is to resign and to consult with him regarding canal affairs. It has been made known to Mr. Taft that Wallace has returned because of the "shabby" way that he has been treated while on the isthmus.

It is asserted here unofficially that there is serious trouble within the commission because the recommendations of the engineer have been slighted and vetoed, particularly as to his suggestions as to the methods that should have been pursued in checking and preventing the yellow fever outbreak. Mr. Taft will use his influence to keep Wallace in the commission.

Chairman Shonts of the commission went to New York to meet Wallace last night. He was commissioned to keep Wallace in the commission so that there might not be another outbreak in President Roosevelt's cabinet family. What the real trouble is is not positively known here, but that Secretary Taft should go to New York to interview the engineer indicates that it is serious.

San Francisco

the trip taking less than three days.

MORE MONEY FOR IMPROVEMENTS IS BEING POURED INTO BROOKLINE—THE 15-MINUTE SUBURB

THAN WAS EVER SPENT ON ANY OTHER SUBURB ON THE FACE OF THE EARTH!

Let this great truth settle down deep into the memory of every person who has ever contemplated purchasing a lot!
We say REMEMBER, remember this important truth! It is wonderful what it will do for possible purchasers who do not forget the significance of it!

Study well what Brookline's grand new double tracked 15-minute speed-rail trolley is bound to do for every foot of real estate in this remarkable location. We are building this T-railed system after a careful estimate of what the future holds for both you and us. Traction engineers are unanimous in the opinion that no finer electric road was ever put on top of ground. It represents the first notable evolution in record-breaking urban transportation, and could never have been thought of for any other territory that is now unpopulated.

It will make no difference what hour you ride on this road. Safety devices will protect you. Should you come in the night the great electric lighting system, with its large arc lamps stationed at the street crossings, will enable you to examine the quality of the proposition as readily as you could by daylight.

How could any other property that isn't having three-quarters of a million dollars spent on it for improvements give you such an investment as Brookline affords? Turning altogether from the question of investment, how could any other property give you a more ideal place in which to build a home?

Where else will you find picturesque country, miles of uninterrupted view, complete first-class street improvements, sootless and fogless air, an eighty-foot boulevard and speedway, and fifteen-minute traction service to the city, all combined? Where else will you find HALF of these advantages combined?

We ask you to look around and see if you can find them anywhere! We are offering this property on a basis of comparison. We want you to try to match it with any location that you can think of.

It is positively, irrefutably, absolutely and unassailably the only property in all Pittsburgh that will have EVERYTHING THAT MORTAL BEINGS DESIRE TO POSSESS in their home life.

You may hear people refer in complimentary terms to this or that location! But after all is said and done, what have they got to put up against Brookline?

Even the prices that we have tagged to this remarkable property are a revelation. Real estate agents themselves are astounded at our pluck.

It Is the First Time In History That Home Sites Have Been Put On the Market On the Small-Profit or Mercantile System of Basing Margins

Bear in Mind That the Lots Are 40x120 Feet, With Building Restrictions.
The Terms Are 5 Per Cent. Down and 2½ Per Cent. Monthly.
No Taxes Nor Interest For You to Pay For Two Years.

Could you ask anything fairer, since it is possible for you, if you hurry, to pick up these choice lots at $100, $150, $200, $250, $300, $350, $400, $450, $500, $550 and $600?

TAKE ANYWHERE ON SMITHFIELD STREET ONE OF THE NEW BROOKLINE VIA WEST LIBERTY CARS! OR GET ON AT THE POST-OFFICE, TAKE OUT YOUR WATCH AND MAKE NOTE OF THE TIME CAR DEPARTS. YOU'LL FIND THAT THE RUN, BARRING UNFORSEEN ACCIDENTS, WILL BE JUST FIFTEEN MINUTES TO THE DOT.

This matchless white city with its twenty-five miles of modern street improvements is worth seeing even if you may not wish to buy. Send, write, telephone or call for the Professor's little book which disproves the Law of Geometry. It contains some convincing truths that will set your mind to working on the facts about Brookline.

RAIN ENDS GREAT COLLEGE STRUGGLE WITH SCORE A TIE

RAIN PREVENTS FINAL CONTEST

Brooklyn Forced to Remain Over and Play Today—Hanlon Hopeful of His Team.

GIANT MOORE GOES HOME

The Brooklyn club expected to go east last night, but showers prevented the game scheduled for yesterday, so Hanlon and his men were forced to remain over another day and will play the final game of the series at Exposition park this afternoon.

Hanlon said last night that his team is now playing better ball than at any other time for a month, and he hopes it will continue its present gait. He thinks it should have won Wednesday's game. He has decided to use either Scanlon or Strickl ett on the rubber tomorrow. Scanlon is the ex-Pirate, and it is claimed for him that he has improved a great deal under the direction of Hanlon. He won from the Pirates at Brooklyn last month and also took a game from New York. If Scanlon does not show form Hanlon will use Strickl ett, who claims to have originated the famous spit ball delivery which so many pitchers are now using. Strickl ett is corroborated by Homer Hillebrand of the Pittsburgh team. Homer was his catcher in the northwest, and declares that Strickl ett was an expert with the spit ball long before any other pitcher attempted it. Chesbro saw strickl ett using the delivery at Detroit and copied it.

Hall may have another opportunity to play tenfield for Brooklyn tomorrow as Capt. Sheckard discovered through the X-ray examination yesterday that one of his fingers is broken. This may keep him out of the game for several days longer.

The Philadelphia club left Chicago for home last night and will be here for several hours today. President Shettsline may take his players to the game to root for Brock way. The Phillies are anxious to get back into second place and will be glad to see the Pirates downed. Brooklyn has a chance to tie the series with Pittsburgh today. If it wins, each club will have four victories to its credit.

Flaherty may pitch for Pittsburgh. He had the cinder removed from his eye and yesterday reported that he was ready to work again. Frank Moore, the giant outfielder who was bought here for a trial, returned to Brichsville yesterday. Clarke thinks he needs a little more training before he breaks into fast company. The Cincinnati team will be here for the half-holiday event tomorrow, and another hot round in the battle for second place will be fought. The Reds won eight games in a row from the eastern teams. Clymer is expected back from Cambridge Springs in time for the Cincinnati game tomorrow.

ALL CREWS ON HAND.

Latest Arrivals at Poughkeepsie, Wisconsin and Georgetown.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 22.—The crews of Wisconsin and Georgetown arrived here today, thus completing the representation of the six universities which will compete in the regatta next Wednesday. Wisconsin arrived at 1:30 p. m., and their boats were at once ferried to this side and housed. Andrew O'Dea, the coach, spent the afternoon rigging the boats, and the men did not go out. Wisconsin has a varsity eight and varsity four, with substitutes, but no freshman crew.

Georgetown sends only a varsity eight, with substitutes, in charge of Coach Dempsey. They arrived at 6:30 p. m., too late to row this evening, but will be on the water early tomorrow morning. The crew is handicapped by two of the men being out of condition. Steward, the stroke, wrenched his leg yesterday and is limping badly tonight, although he declares he will row tomorrow.

EDGEWORTH WINS MATCH FROM ALLEGHENY CLUB

Results of the Golf Team Play Furnishes Biggest Surprise of the Local Season.

The Edgeworth club furnished a big surprise in golf circles yesterday by taking into camp the Allegheny Country club, 11 to 2, in their match on the former's links for the team championship in the Western Pennsylvania Golf association. The results were so unlooked for and the individual defeats were in such unexpected quarters that it will be difficult to find explanation.

Young David S. Hays downed such a brilliant golfer as E. M. Byers by 2 up, standing 1 up at the turn. But the runaway match between David Baxter and George E. McCague was hardly less astounding. Mr. Cague, with 2 up at the half, increased his lead to a margin of 7 at the end of play. O. D. Thompson and J. C. Oliver were the only players for Allegheny who won their matches and they played excellent golf. The individual results were:

All the spring team matches in the Western Pennsylvania Golf association championship series have been played except the one between Edgeworth club and the Edgewood Golf club, which will be played Saturday at Edgeworth. The Standing of the clubs is as follows:

Pittsburgh Golf club claims match with the Edgewood Golf club June 29 by forfeit.

Local golfers are to have a treat this afternoon in the exhibition match on the links of the Pittsburgh Golf club between George Low, professional at the Baltusrol Golf club, Short Hills, N. J., and George A. Ormiston, the local amateur crack. Low is on his way to the western open championship and was invited by T. M. Marshall, Jr., a member of the Pittsburgh Golf club, to stop off. He is one of the first three professional golfers in the country. The match, which will be at 18 holes, will start at 5:30 p. m., and golfers are invited to witness the match.

Before the musicale given by John C. Leitch at the Brighton Country club last night an exhibition golf foursome was played between R. L. James and David Baxter against G. A. Ormiston and W. S. Eyster. It was won by the former by 1 up. Their best ball was as follows:

Baxter-James	5	3	4	3	5	4	3	4	3	—32

HAVE GOT THEIR NERVE.

American Tennis Cracks Are Doing Great Preliminary Work.

LONDON, June 22.—The American International lawn tennis team is playing grand tennis at the Queens club, easily defeating all comers. The form the Americans are showing preceding the All-England championships, international matches and the other events in which they are entered, is already causing a nervousness among their English opponents and Colonial cracks. The games in which the Americans are playing at the Queens club are attracting much attention, almost entirely drawing off the galleries from the other matches.

Favored with perfect tennis weather, the Queens club has been well patronized by fashionable society since the opening of the tournament, notwithstanding the counter attraction of Ascot week. The service and net play of the Americans seem to be a revelation to the English players. This has been particularly noticeable in the doubles in which Beals C. Wright and Holcomb Ward completely dazed their opponents with their in-play and brilliant cross, eliciting almost continuous applause.

ELEVEN INNING DRAWN BATTLE

Struggle Between Yale and Harvard Is Magnificent—Rain Puts an End to Game.

GRAND PITCHING DISPLAY

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CAMBRIDGE, June 22.—With the score a tie, the rain falling in torrents, the players and spectators alike thoroughly drenched, "Tim" Hurst, the veteran league umpire, called today's game between Harvard and Yale at the conclusion of the eleventh inning and thereby put a stop to one of the grandest struggles for supremacy ever witnessed in the dual championship series between the Crimson and Blue, each being credited with a lone run.

From start to finish it was a magnificent fusiee, featured by several brilliant plays, sterling rallies and determined work on the part of both pitchers. After the second inning the contest resolved itself into a pretty exhibition of masterly twirling in which the Yale man scored the highest honors.

For six years the wearers of the blue have met with determined opposition in the Harvard camp, and six consecutive years championships have been tallied in Harvard's favor. This year, apparently, Yale is anxious to break the monotony and today gave the Harvard rooters a bad case of the shivers with their lightning fielding, daring base-running and ability to crawl out of tight holes.

In the last half of the ninth inning bands of frenzied students, excited maidens and loyal alumni rose in the bleachers and rendered Harvard's favorite song, "On to Victory," as it was never heard before.

Yale scored an earned run at the very start and in the second inning Yale's mistplays enabled a Harvard man to cross the plate. From that time on several opportunities were offered both sides, but superb pitching and sharp fielding prevented further runs. Score:

Member of Yale Crew Must Answer Charge and May Be Lifted from Eight.

NEW HAVEN, June 22.—(Special.)—An official report was made today to the Yale faculty by Professor Hollon A. Farr that Cornelius Edward Daly, one of the best oarsmen in the varsity eight, had been caught cribbing in his examinations in his studies at the Yale crew quarters, Gales Ferry, in the past week.

Dr. Farr has been asked to appear before the faculty at a meeting which will be held tomorrow afternoon, and to present his evidence. It will be possible to remove Daly from the Yale crew and from the university if he is found guilty of an aggravated cut and case of cribbing. Friends of Daly say, however, that the case was due to a misunderstanding and that he was not guilty of cribbing.

Daly has been in Yale four years and is due to get his diploma at the commencement exercises next week. He hails from Worcester and rowed on the Wachusetts four-oared crew, which was captained by Eddie Ten Eyck, and which won the national championship four years ago. He has rowed three years in the Yale varsity shell, making it in his freshman year, which is very unusual for an oarsman.

LIQUOR DEALERS WILL NOT BE REIMBURSED BY STATE

Fines Collected Under the Pure Food Act Are to Remain in the Treasury, Says the Attorney General.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, June 22.—Liquor dealers, from whom fines were collected by State Dairy and Food Commissioner Warren for the sale of adulterated liquor, will not be reimbursed by the commonwealth in spite of the decision of Chief Justice Mitchell, of the state supreme court, that the "pure food act" of 1895 is unconstitutional so far as it applies to intoxicating drink.

Attorney General Carson furnished Commissioner Warren with an official opinion today in which he decides that there is no provision in the law which would authorize the repayment by the commonwealth or by Warren, the commonwealth's officer, of fines already collected.

The attorney general also says that at the time the prosecutions were brought and the money was received through the payment of fines, the commissioner was acting within the terms of an act of assembly presumed to be constitutional and sustained by a decision of the superior court, which had not been reversed.

Carson also holds that the fines must be treated as state moneys and, in accordance with the constitution, cannot be paid out of the treasury except upon appropriations made by law. Aside from this, the attorney general says it is a general principle of law that the commonwealth is not liable for costs.

Carson also furnished Warren with an opinion to the effect that the supreme court decision does not cover such liquids as milk, cream or buttermilk, because such liquids are regarded as food. The attorney general says that the state department of health created by the recent legislature is not empowered to prosecute those who adulterate drink, neither is the state pharmaceutical board, although the latter body has authority to prosecute those who manufacture or sell adulterated drugs.

WIT AND HUMOR MARK CLASS NIGHT PROGRAM

Pittsburgh Central High School Class of '95 Entertains Large Audience of Friends.

Wit and humor flowed freely at the class night exercises of the class of '05 at Pittsburgh Central High school last night. The large chapel was filled to the doors. The stage was decorated with the class colors, red and yellow, with a large "'05" in the background, while over the class hung a triangle of electric lights with the "'05" in the center. After the program an informal reception was held in Marble hall.

The exercises opened with prayer by the Rev. William J. Reid, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church. H. Reid Loughridge, the class president, welcomed the guests and what he did not tell of the virtues of the class as compared with other classes, was told by Walter Schlegel, who delivered the eulogy.

Miss Grace K. Knox in her declamation, "Up in a Balloon," made a hit, as did Miss Irene M. Lexterman, the class poet, who gave an original poem which recited the love affairs of half the class in a humorous way. Joseph D. Imhoff, who delivered the "retrospect," told of many a prank perpetrated on the faculty, the confession of which comes too late for punishment. Guy M. Stewart's "prophecy" was a good delineation of the character and habits of the members of the class.

Paul L. Reincke "made" the class will, bequeathing to "Class B" the retiring class' good reputation. It also leaves the old school building to the Central board with the request that a new building be soon erected. The faculty was forgiven freely for all the trouble it had caused the class. Leslie A. McLean was the donor of many appropriate presents to the members of the class as suggested by their habits and associates.

There were 114 members in the class. In his prayer Dr. Reid called attention to two absent members, Roger Brockelbank, who died during the year, and Harry Latshaw, who was obliged to go to South Carolina in search of health.

RIVALS ON THE GRIDIRON.

H. Prentis Taylor Remembers Prof. C. C. Rice as His Former Adversary on the Gridiron.

In the announcement yesterday morning that Prof. C. C. Rice, recently of the Leland Stanford university, California, had been found in an insane condition on the streets of Allegheny, H. P. Taylor, a local bond broker, recognized the name as that of a friend and old-time rival on the gridiron in his college days.

Taylor was a student in the University of California and played center on the football team at the time when Prof. Rice played the same position on the Leland Stanford team. The two universities have ever been strong rivals and the two men waged several fierce combats against each other. Mr. Taylor made an effort to visit Prof. Rice in St. Francis hospital yesterday, but owing to the continued critical condition of the patient he was denied admittance. He left orders that every attention be shown him and that, if necessary, he would assume any incurring expense.

Prof. Rice was en route from Lincoln, Neb., to Brooklyn, N. Y., and during a brief lucid interval yesterday morning declared that he knew not why he had left the train or how he came to be in Allegheny. Prof. Rice's father and his brother, W. G. Rice, are expected to arrive from Lincoln today and take charge of him.

Clark, James J. Hill, John J. Mitchell and Samuel Thorne were elected. E. T. Nichols, treasurer of the Great Northern, resigned to make a place for one of the strictly Hill representatives. This completes Hill's reorganization of the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Burlington railroads, and places him in supreme command of the three properties.

CHARLES WATTS GETS OFF LUCKY ONCE MORE

Popular Pennsylvania Official in the Mentor Wreck—Maliciousness at Manor.

Charles Watts, general superintendent passenger transportation of the Pennsylvania Lines west, was caught in the wreck of the Twentieth Century Limited of the New York Central lines at Mentor, Wednesday night. Fortunately Mr. Watts happened to be in the rear Pullman and escaped serious injury, being able to resume his journey from Cleveland to New York later in the night. He is expected home from New York this morning.

Mr. Watts has become known to some of his friends as "the wreck man," he having been in more wrecks than perhaps any other railroad official in the country, and having escaped unscathed from all.

While railroad officials in Pittsburgh yesterday were free enough in discussing the wreck of the new 18-hour flyer, none of them would consent to speak for publication. From one and all came the expression that it was unfortunate, of course, that any train should be wrecked, but particularly so in the case of the new flyer. They said that the wreck might just as well have happened to any other train.

Pennsylvania railroad officers would say nothing regarding the alleged attempt to wreck the Pennsylvania Special, No. 28, eastbound, on "Devil's Curve," just east of Manor, last Monday night. According to the best information obtainable, a pile of ties was placed on the main running track after the "Bummer" had passed "Devil's Curve," as a sharp curve east of Manor is known, at 12:45 o'clock, and before the Pennsylvania special was due to pass at 1:34 o'clock Tuesday morning. The track-walker found the obstruction and removed it, according to the story.

This alleged attempt at wrecking the flyer recalls the malicious happenings in the vicinity of Manor a couple of years ago. One night a switch was tampered with, causing the wrecking of a freight train. Shortly afterward a chain was tied around the rail on the eastbound track at the east end of Radebaugh tunnel, the apparent intention of the perpetrator being to wreck an eastbound passenger train, and also catch a westbound passenger due to pass through the tunnel shortly afterward. Then a switch at Penn station was tampered with for the wrecking of train No. 21 westbound. Since that time there has been no reported attempt at such malicious practices until the one reported last Monday night. It is understood the Pennsylvania is keeping its detective and track forces on guard at all hours.

There is one feature of the Pennsylvania system's trackage on all its lines that has not been exploited. And this is a phase of safety—that of having only "trailing point" switches on its main running tracks. These switches allow only the backing of a train to a siding from the main track unless the train is running in the opposite direction from that regularly intended for the track. The other form of switch is known as the "facing point" pattern, toward which a forward-moving train moves. The Pennsylvania system has eliminated all facing point switches from its double-track roads and requires careful running over single-track roads at points where there are switches.

WANT A NEW BRIDGE.

Petition Is Being Prepared for Structure Over Millwood Street.

Property owners and residents in Thirty-third street are making renewed efforts to secure the erection of a new bridge over the hollow in Millwood street. The present structure is dilapidated and was closed to heavy travel two years ago. The bridge, which is a wooden affair, was erected 38 years ago and under heavy wear has become woefully weak.

At one time councils appropriated $16,000 for a new bridge, but the money was later applied otherwise. A second appropriation of $13,000 was made, and this, also, was turned into other channels. Between 2,000 and 3,000 persons use the bridge daily and it is deemed unsafe for foot travel by residents. A petition is being prepared asking for a new bridge and will be presented to the city authorities shortly.

DURHAM SAYS HE WILL NOT RESIGN

Emphasizes the Declaration After an Interview With Governor and Carson.

APPEARS IN GOOD SPIRITS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU
HARRISBURG, June 22.

Insurance Commissioner Durham spent two hours in Harrisburg today conferring with Gov. Pennypacker and Attorney General Carson on departmental business. Mr. Durham said, before meeting the governor, there was no truth in the report he had been asked by the executive to resign from the cabinet. He repeated this statement with greater emphasis after leaving the governor and attorney general, to take a train back to Philadelphia.

Durham arrived here at 1 o'clock from Philadelphia, accompanied by State Banking Commissioner McAfee and Capt. Erb, the secretary. The insurance commissioner went out at once to the governor's private office at the executive department.

"Are you here to resign from the office of insurance commissioner?" Durham was asked while on his way to Capitol Hill.

"No," replied the commissioner, "I am not here for that purpose, and that is plainly put. I am here to see the governor on official business and for nothing else. I am not going to resign."

Durham then went into the governor's private room, where Attorney Carson had preceded him. For more than an hour the three officials conferred. When they next appeared in the reception room they were smiling and appeared to have been having a good time.

"Now, can you say anything about your resignation?" Durham was asked.

"I haven't heard of it," was the reply.

"Was that the object of your conference with the governor?"

"It was not. We did not even discuss the question," answered Mr. Durham. "I tell you I am here solely on official business connected with my department."

At this juncture Gov. Pennypacker broke in with:

"Come on, Durham; come on Carson."

The three started for the executive mansion for luncheon, but when Mr. Durham reached the mansion he found he did not have time to lunch with the governor, and excusing himself, left for the station, where he was joined by Capt. Erb and took the 3 o'clock train for Philadelphia.

Later, when the governor was asked the object of Durham's visit, he confirmed the commissioner's statement that it was on official business.

The bureau of health has issued circulars of warning in an effort to reduce the number or entirely eliminate fatalities in the coming Fourth of July celebration. The circular calls special attention to the seriousness of tetanus and suggests that the police forbid the use of blank cartridges because of the susceptibility of tetanus poisoning from wounds caused by them.

It urges that any wounds, however slight, from blank cartridges, be treated by a physician and recommends a tetanus anti-toxin treatment to physicians with the announcement that the bureau will furnish the anti-toxin free to physicians during the month of July.

GRAFT WITNESS TAKES APPEALS

Clara Livingston Was Fined and Imprisoned on Charges Before Allegheny Magistrates.

BECHTEL IS AGAIN INDICTED

Judge Kennedy allowed two appeals from sentences imposed by Allegheny alderman on Clara Livingston, one of the witnesses in the Allegheny graft prosecutions. The woman has been in jail for some time on one of the sentences and the allowing of the appeal means her release pending the review of the case by the court.

In one of the cases she was fined $50 by Magistrate Abernethey on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, and she maintains her arrest and summary conviction was not on the evidence, but that the police had threatened her arrest because she was a witness in cases against Police Captain James Wilson. The other case was brought before Alderman A. J. Brunker on a charge of harboring Annie Kountz, a minor. She was fined $100 or 90 days in jail. She alleges the girl is not a minor and that she only was in her house about a half-hour while calling on a friend.

The grand jury returned a true bill against E. J. Bechtel of Home Development Company fame. He is charged with a misdemeanor in conducting the National Investment Company, an institution similar to the Home concern, on oath of Superintendent of Detectives McQuaide. True bills were also returned against Minnie Hunter, one of the principal witnesses against Allegheny officials in the recent graft trials. She is charged with selling liquor without a license and conducting a disorderly house on West Robinson street by Acting Superintendent of Police John Glenn.

Teacher Pays Half the Costs.

Other true bills were: Felonious assault, Julius Syrucki; embezzlement, L. W. Swartz, Alex. Vasloskey, H. L. Chambers; felony, Morris O'Connor; entering a building, Robert Johnston, Frank McCauley, et al; burglary, Frank McCauley, et al; robbery, Patrick O'Keefe, et al; subornation of perjury, Simon F. Crist; forgery, H. L. Chambers; larceny, Mary Haney, Pat Murphy, D. Dundaris, James Erskine, Edward Green; false pretense, G. H. Conn, H. Braun et al; A. M. Crawford; aggravated assault and battery, Edward Connelly, Fred Kohler, James Jersey; receiving stolen goods, Martin Burkhofer, Jacob Wall; larceny by bailee, J. Burkoff, Andy Soley, John Ebele; assault and battery, L. Aul, et al, N. K. Campbell, Mike Colbert, Thomas Hess, Mary Haney, W. H. Walker (2), Kirk Davis, George Mallinger; misdemeanor, George McCarthy, Emma Sachs, J. S. Espey, et al.

Prof. John H. Chatham, principal of the Fifteenth ward school, Allegheny, was acquitted of the charge of assault and battery in criminal court, but one-half the costs were placed on him. The case was heard Wednesday afternoon, he being charged with assaulting George Lindsay Kinnear, a pupil, and the jury rendered a sealed verdict which was read yesterday morning.

Some Charges Not Proven.

The master's report in the divorce suit of Sophia Simon against Philip P. Simon, has been filed in which a decree is recommended. The charge made is cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities. The master says that the libellant has established her case by due proof, but that the charges of immorality are not sustained. He says that he believes the respondent was misled or deceived by letters received, so that he became jealous and unreasonable and began a course of conduct that entitles the libellant to a divorce.

The testimony showed that Mr. Simon has lived for the past year in the same house with his wife, but that he has taken his meals elsewhere. Mrs. Simon testified that he would not work when he could and did not properly support his family. Simon testified at the hearing and was represented by an attorney, but the master says he did not sign his statement, so infers that he made no fight against the granting of a decree.

"Washlady's" Sad Story.

Spectators in Judge Kennedy's branch of criminal court were afforded considerable amusement when the case in which Hattie Williams and John Rolls were defendants was on trial. Both are negroes. The Williams woman was charged with selling liquor illegally and Rolls with aiding and abetting in the conducting of her resort at 1221 Clark street. The prosecutor in the case was George Romain of former Alderman Barton's office, and was an echo of the vice crusade started by Alderman Barton in the Hill district several months ago. Hattie Williams was tried first before four jurors and convicted. When an attempt was made to try Rolls' case before the same four jurymen he strongly objected and insisted on 12 men being placed in the box, which was finally done.

Hattie Williams, who admitted Rolls was no longer her friend, was the principal witness against him, and her story, told in rapid-fire style, nearly convulsed everyone in the court room.

"I'm a washlady, your honor," said Mrs. Williams. "I met this John Rolls on Second avenue and he stopped me and said: 'Look here, Hattie, how you doing washing when making yourself sick? Come and join with me and you will have all kinds of money.'"

Mrs. Williams said she placed herself and all her furniture in Rolls' care and that he set her up in a speakeasy and collected all the receipts.

"I did not even get the $8 a week I used to make taking in washing after I met Rolls," concluded Mrs. Williams.

The jury is out in the case.

McQuaide Pays Costs.

Superintendent of Detectives Thomas A. McQuaide was ordered to pay the costs in the case in which he prosecuted Harry Lacey, colored, for stealing lead pipe. Lacey proved an alibi and was acquitted. Other cases disposed of were: Frank Dunn, larceny, sent to Huntingdon reformatory; Tony Feteski, ecfd for larceny and convicted of receiving stolen goods; Lee Tun, keeping opium joint, acquitted; John E. Murdock, larceny, acquitted; Lawrence Guckert, larceny, acquitted.

G. B. Perkins was granted a license as a detective in quarter sessions court.

Claiming Joseph Donovan alienated the affections of his wife, Ella Hare, John T. Hare entered suit against Donovan, asking $10,000 damages. A capias was issued for Donovan's arrest. Hare avers he was married to Ella B. Bliss in February of 1893, and lived happily until August, 1903, when Donovan became acquainted with his wife. He avers that he frequently called at his home, both day and night, during his absence, took his wife to theaters and to houses of assignation and finally succeeded in obtaining such a hold on her affections that she left her husband.

No Decision in Shuff Case.

Judge Buffington in United States circuit court did not hand down his decision on certain testimony taken in the equity suit of John L. Shuff against the Philadelphia company, as was expected.

George L. Bucklen, a grocer of Rochester, Pa., filed a petition in bankruptcy, giving his liabilities as $4,856 40 and his assets at $2,199 53.

By her will, filed for probate, Flora E. Mathews of Allegheny divides a $7,000 estate among her children. Attorney S. A. Johnston represents the estate.

SOCIETY

IN hundreds of East End homes last evening there were unusually tired but unusually happy children. During the afternoon these children had romped and made merry over the wide verandas of the Country club in Squirrel hill in celebration of children's day. The unpleasant weather interfered but little with the plans for the children's happiness, for during a slight lull in the rain, several balloons were sent up, the little ones watching their ascent and descent with that joy known only to those in the realm of childhood. The American Military band played at one corner of the verandas during the entire afternoon, a Punch and Judy show and a magician were the attractions in the spacious living room, an informal little dance was conducted, this also on the veranda, and there, too, refreshments were served to the hundreds of little boys and girls, all in dainty suits and frocks of white. Not the least important feature was the hurdy gurdy, which was stationed on the lawn. The children were all carried off at 6 o'clock by nursemaids and proud mothers, the latter of whom returned in the evening to participate in the dance for the older people. Numerous small and informal dinners were given preceding the dance. The children's day celebration was given under the auspices of the following prominent women and girls: Mrs. C. A. MAY DELIVER LECTURES UPON RETURN FROM JAPAN

The Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy Receives Numerous Requests from All Sections of the Country.

The Rev. J. Leonard Levy has just received an invitation to address the biennial conference of the International Society of Liberal Religions, which convenes in Geneva, Switzerland, August 28. The invitation carries honor with it, inasmuch as the society rarely appeals to outsiders to address them. Dr. Levy has also been invited to address the International peace conference which meets in Lucerne, Switzerland, beginning September 12.

Neither of these invitations can be accepted, as Dr. Levy leaves tomorrow night over the Fort Wayne road, for a two months' visit to Japan, during which time he will study the religious, economic and labor conditions of that land. After spending a day in Milwaukee and another in St. Paul, Dr. Levy will sail from Vancouver, Canada, on the steamer Empress of China, on July 3. He is scheduled to arrive in Yokohama on July 17. Mrs. Levy and her two daughters will spend the summer at Cape May and will leave for that point today.

Dr. Levy has already received numerous requests to lecture on Japan, upon his return, from all sections of the country. His reputation, nationally and internationally, as an orator, scholar and man of force and broad ideas, has brought him so many urgent appeals for lectures that it is probable upon his return he will deliver a course of lectures at prominent points throughout the country. He has built up an enviable reputation as a lecturer through the discourses which he has delivered here during the Sunday lecture season, and which are largely subscribed for in printed form. Among distinguished subscribers to these lectures are: President Roosevelt, the Rev. Dr. Charles Wagner, of "Simple Life" fame; Booker T. Washington, and noted educators and jurists. These lectures have attained world-wide circulation going to such remote countries as India, Arabia, New Zealand and the Argentine Republic.

Several hundred friends and members of the Reform Congregation Rodeph Shalom bade the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. Leonard Levy farewell at their home in Denniston avenue last night. Dr. Levy was the recipient of many valuable gifts, among which was a substantial check from the board of trustees of his congregation.

FAVORS SELLING AGENCY.

Simon Burns of Window Glass Workers Urges Consolidation of Warring Factions of Manufacturers.

Simon Burns, president of Local 300 of the Window Glass Workers' association, made an official announcement yesterday of his plan to guard against wage cutting. He believes that if independent manufacturers unite prices can be maintained and wages upheld.

Burns contended the workers must meet machine competition and that reduction in wages would benefit the consumer but not the manufacturer. He announced that the window glass business could be placed in good shape for manufacturers, jobbers and workers by uniting the warring factions of manufacturers into one compact selling agency, and electing James A. Chambers president; H. B. Van Cleve secretary, and J. R. Johnson treasurer. He stated if a tight selling agency is formed and prices and wages maintained, the workers would contribute $6,000 a year to the salary list of the selling agency.

CONSTABLE PAYS A FINE FOR SHOOTING IN THE CITY

It is alleged that Metz and Artz were quarreling in East street and that Knoellinger attempted to arrest them. He caught Metz, but Artz ran away. Knoellinger is alleged to have fired several shots after the fleeing boy. Later Artz is said to have given himself up to Knoellinger and that the latter threatened to do him harm.

People's Weekly Concerts.

Free people's concerts in the recreation parks this summer will be a new feature of summer work planned by the joint committee of women's clubs, which has charge of the Pittsburgh summer playgrounds and vacation schools. The committee is considering the plan of giving a weekly concert in each of the four recreation parks for six weeks, making 24 free concerts for the people during the summer. The four parks to be opened this season are the South Side park, the Washington park on Herron Hill, the Schoenberger property in Butler street, near the Allegheny cemetery, which is now being put in condition for the season, and the Denny property on Thirty-fifth street and Liberty avenue. This last has been leased by the committee and is large enough for very generous plans for athletic sports for older children and adults, and playgrounds for the little ones. At each of these parks the committee expects this summer to hold a series of band concerts for the people of the neighborhood. Great changes have been made in Washington park this season. A gymnasium is being completed for the girls alone. It will contain baths and other equipment. The trees which were planted on Arbor day by several of the women's clubs, together with those planted a year ago, are already casting a little shade and greatly improve the appearance of the grounds. The city this year appropriated $5,000 for the recreation parks, $5,000 of which is being used for Washington park, $5,000 for the South Side park and the remainder will be expended for the other two parks and for the giving of the people's concerts.

Garden Musicale at Country Club.

The Brighton Country club was the scene of a series of events yesterday, concluding with the garden musicale given in the evening. Miss Florence Wickham of Beaver, who was recently heard in "Parsifal" in Pittsburgh, was the guest of honor, and the people invited by John Leitch to meet her were chiefly the musical people of the two cities. Miss Wickham expects to return to Europe in August and the series of affairs yesterday were arranged as a farewell. During the afternoon there was an informal reception and golf. After a delightful supper the evening garden musicale was given at which Miss Wickham sang, supported by some of the best known singers in Western Pennsylvania. Her two numbers were a Meyerbeer recitative and aria from "Le Prophet" and a recitative and aria from Donizetti's "Die Favorita." The quintet from "Lohengrin" was sung by Miss Emma J. Baumann, Miss Jane Lang, W. C. Earnest, John B. Roberts and Fred W. Cutter, the concluding number being the familiar aster from "Lucia," sung by Miss Hattie Jones, Miss Jane Lang, Dan T. Beddow, John R. Roberts, W. C. Earnest and Fred W. Cutter. Other soloists were Miss Anna Gertrude Clark, Miss Ruth Hay, Miss Katherine Ellis and E. Ellsworth Giles. Lecture On Shakespeare's Women.

George W. Gerwig, secretary of the Allegheny board of school controllers, will go to Allentown, Pa., in August to deliver a series of lectures before the teachers' institute, which will be in session there during the last week of the month. The lectures will be 10 in number, and will be delivered morning and afternoon of each of the days of the session of the institute. The lectures will deal with Shakespeare's dramas, among them being the series of papers on Shakespeare's women, which Mr. Gerwig has read before several of the Pittsburgh women's clubs. He was invited to lecture on the same subject before the Woman's club of Chautauqua last year.

Tenement Meeting Postponed.

The joint meeting of the tenement house committees was postponed yesterday for a few days because of the unexpected absence of several of the men of one of the committees from the city. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, who is a member of the committee of three which has been asked to unite with the larger one of five, expects to leave on Saturday for the west, intending to sail from San Francisco for Japan on the mission of the Pittsburgh Peace society and for recreation.

Trying to Secure Miss Schoenfeld.

The directors of the Columbian Council school are unanimous in desiring to secure Miss Schoenfeld as head resident of the school to succeed Miss Baumgarten, who has resigned. Miss Schoenfeld was the head resident for several years, severing her connection with the settlement last June, when she returned to her home in Johnstown. An effort is being made by the directors to have her return.

STOCKS CONTINUED ACTIVE AND CLOSED HIGHER

Gains in the Investment Railroad Issues Averaged More Than a Point—Coal Stocks Were Weak in the Local Market.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market continued active and strong yesterday, and with a few exceptions prices closed higher all around. The gains in the investment railroad stocks averaged more than a point, and while closing prices were not at the highest, the tone of the market was firm.

There were no important developments of a favorable character, and traders were disposed to ignore anything that might otherwise have been construed as unfavorable. The publication of the report of State Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks on Equitable Life affairs did not contain anything of a favorable character, but on the other hand, it did not reveal anything of importance that was not set forth in the Frick report, and Wall street therefore looked upon it as eliminating the Equitable as a factor in the market. Advices from Paris and Berlin intimated that the situation between Germany and France over Moroccan affairs was strained, and London quotations for American securities were lower, but traders ignored foreign influences and also the fact that London was a seller on balance of something like 35,000 shares. This selling for foreign account was ascribed partly to profit-taking and partly to the publication in London papers of the points of the Hendricks report, and not to any developments in the political situation on the continent. Wall street also refused to recognize in the strength of cotton and grain any indication of unfavorable crop news.

In the early dealings transactions were on a large scale, and there was evidence of activity on the part of pools that have done nothing for a long time past. The strongest of the railroad list, however, was the Pennsylvania group. Pennsylvania itself advanced to 139⅝ and closed near the top. Reading recovered to 97, and closed at a net gain of nearly a point. Norfolk & Western was strong, advancing to 82½, and this stock is now looked upon as the next in line for an increase in the dividend rate. Baltimore & Ohio, which is also expected to increase its rate next month, advanced to 111⅜ and closed with a net gain of a point.

The western group of railroad stocks was also active and firm, Union Pacific being notable for an advance to 126⅝, Illinois Central to 167 and St. Paul to 178½. There was some talk of the probability of the Southern Pacific directors putting the common stock on a dividend basis this month, and it advanced to 63⅝. Among the low-priced issues Rock Island was conspicuous for an advance to 30⅝. For months past there have been rumors as to the intentions of the pool in this stock, but the latter has apparently been allowed to take care of itself, and even when the rest of the market was booming last spring, Rock Island was a laggard. That it should now become active revives the hopes of traders that insiders are in harmony with an upward movement at this time.

While the industrials were active and firm, they did not take so prominent part in the dealings. U. S. Steel common advanced to 30⅝ and closed with a net gain of ¾ per cent. The preferred, after advancing to 93⅜, reacted to and closed unchanged for the day at 93⅛. The minor iron and steel stocks were firm and closed fractionally higher, with the exception of American Locomotive common, which closed ⅞ per cent lower. The Locomotive directors declared the usual quarterly dividend on the preferred, but none on the common. Amalgamated Copper and Smelting were active and strong and closed 1⅛ and 1⅝ per cent higher for the day.

The local stock market was fairly active and firm, with the exception of the coal stocks. On sales of only 200 shares, Pittsburgh Coal common declined to 16 and closed at that price bid. On sales of 591 shares the preferred declined to 72 and closed offered at that price. River Coal preferred was even weaker, being offered down to 24½ without bringing a bid for a quotable lot. This is the lowest price of the year, and $6 a share below the high price touched last spring. There was no explanation for the weakness. A small lot of American Window Glass preferred stock sold at 80, a decline of 15 points from the last previous sale. The steel stocks were the strongest features of the market. Crucible common advanced to and closed at 10¾, and the preferred gained ¾ per cent, selling at 62¾. The advance was in sympathy with the strength in U. S. Steel issues, which kept close to the New York parity. Westinghouse Electric closed higher at 84, and Air Brake was firm at 144 bid. Fire Proofing and Brewing stocks were dull, but firm. A feature of the trading was the sale of 1,000 shares Pennsylvania Railroad stock at 135⅜, an advance of 2¾ per cent.

IN WALL STREET

Stock market continued active and closed higher all around.

Sales included 858,100 shares stock and $3,340,000 bonds.

The largest net gains were in the standard investment issues.

Pennsylvania was quite active and closed 1⅞ higher.

Steel common closed higher, but the preferred was unchanged.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Coal stocks were the only weak features of the local market yesterday. The weakness in River Coal preferred was quite pronounced, the stock being offered down to 24½ without effecting a sale. This is the lowest price of the year. The offerings were a little larger than of late, and there was more pressure to sell. There was no explanation for the weakness, but it is inferred that the decline means that no dividend will be declared for the past six months. Pittsburgh Coal preferred did not sell below 72 here, but in New York the final sale was at 70, and the stock closed offered at 69. The decline in this stock is explained by the recent announcement that the company had sold the remaining treasury stock, which has been listed on the New York exchange. A New York dispatch said the weakness was due to increasing competition in the soft coal trade.

The action of the New York market warranted a conviction that the movement was in the hands of an organized party of skilled operators bent on attracting a following of outsiders by demonstrating the possibilities of strength in the situation. Their faith in the profit to be derived from this operation is supposed to be based on the innate evidence of strength afforded by the market itself by its resistance to recent attacks. Contentment with the future promise of prosperity is counted as the underlying factor in the hardness of prices. But much ahead also of the probably large dimensions of a "sleeping short interest," the result of an accumulation of persistent shorts selling for a long time past. A sufficient advance in prices would dislodge such an interest and force it to buy stocks to cover. The organized campaign which has developed this week is clearly designed to lift the level of prices rather than to effect an indefinite accumulation at the lowest prices possible. The operations give evidence of an abundant supply of funds and of resourceful expedients in manipulation which show the leaders to be experienced and skillful operators.

The sale of 80 shares American Window Glass preferred at 80 yesterday established a New low price for this stock. Last year the range on this stock was between 34 and 80. In 1903 the range was between 50 and 90½. When the company was organized this stock was looked upon as one of the safest of the industrials, because the issue was only $4,000,000, calling for only $280,000 a year for the full dividends, and it was thought that a $17,000,000 corporation, the constituents of which the year before its organization earned about $5,400,000 net, would not have any difficulty in earning the preferred dividend in the worst of years. The company, however, has paid no dividends for more than a year.

Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Connellsville 5s made a new high record yesterday by selling at 104¼.

Union Steel 5s were quoted at 97⅛@97⅝ and accrued interest.

Colonial Trust was quoted at 885 bid for 9 shares. Homestead Savings and Trust was offered at 110.

Union Natural Gas was quoted at 108 bid, 109 asked.

The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent, payable July 20, to stock of record July 1. The stock was steady and unchanged yesterday, 120 shares selling at 35½ to 35⅝.

Hazelwood Oil Company directors have declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent and an extra dividend of 1 per cent, payable to stock of record June 30.

Directors of the American Nut and Bolt Fastener Company have declared an extra dividend of 3½ per cent, payable July 3, to stock of record June 30.

Several correspondents are reminded that anonymous communications do not receive attention in this department.

An unusual transaction on the Pittsburgh exchange was the sale of 1,000 shares Pennsylvania Railroad at 139⅜. Holmes & Sons sold to Masten & Co.

The dividend on Reading common is payable August 1 to stock of record July 20.

The last official statement of the City Trust Company of Philadelphia showed cash on hand and due from banks and bankers less than 10 per cent of total deposits.

Net earnings of Pacific Mail for April were $113,749, an increase of $19,651. For 10 months the net increased $104,234.

Among the features of strength yesterday were Norfolk & Western, Pennsylvania and United States Steel issues, as well as American Smelters. The strength in Norfolk & Western was said to be due to the switching over of a large account hitherto active in handling. There is a confident feeling that N. & W. will be put on a 4 per cent dividend basis this summer.

The New York Journal of Commerce reports that the State Association of Savings Banks has split into two factions over the question of the repeal of the tax on surplus. The faction for repeal is headed by President Wood of the Bowery Savings bank. President John Harsen Rhodes of the Greenwich Savings bank is opposed to the repeal and declares that not a bank in New York should decrease its interest rate on account of the tax. The tax on the surplus of the Greenwich bank is only $300 a year. A change of ¼ of 1 per cent in the interest rate would amount to $240,000.

News developments from hour to hour are given less attention in Wall street now than during the recent period, while small, and unrecognized traders were striving for a small turn on prices. A movement of greater consistency and more substantial basis is evidently designed now, as is shown by the confidence with which stocks are absorbed on the advances. The coming semi-annual dividend and interest disbursements are supposed to be in view on the part of those who are seeking to put up prices. The disbursement period gives rise to some natural demand for reinvestment of accumulated funds. Cash reserves are now accumulating in New York very freely in anticipation of these requirements, and there seems no probability of even a temporary disturbance of the money market while effecting these disbursements. After that the pressure of idle capital for investment is likely to increase.

An improved sentiment in the iron trade reported by the Iron Age was dwelt upon, but the United States Steel stocks themselves were late in coming into the movement and the preferred stock did not close higher than on Wednesday.

The National Fuel Gas Company, an underlying concern of the Standard, operating in Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, has declared its usual quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent, payable July 1.

The Hill Top Savings and Trust Company has declared the usual semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent, payable July 1.

American Locomotive directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock, payable July 31.

Panhandle net earnings for May decreased $2,185. For five months the net increased $121,113.

Gross earnings of Chicago & Northwestern for May increased $767,943.

FINANCIAL AND TRADE NOTES.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(Special.)—A New York stock exchange seat sold for $72,500. This is an unchanged price from the last previous sale. James H. Childs of Pittsburgh was elected a member of the stock exchange today.

BUSINESS POOR, BUT STOCKS RULE STRONG

Public Takes Little Part in the Market, and Shows No Confidence in Its Course.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 23.—The Herald this (Friday) morning says:

Stocks ruled strong yesterday in a market of sustained activity, but in which business was poorly distributed. The manipulators and professional character of the trading was self-evident. The general opinion of Wall street was that the whole affair was purely artificial and devised as an offset of Superintendent Hendricks' report, dealing with the discovery of alleged criminal offences in the administration of the Equitable Assurance society, cognizance of which have at last been taken by the criminal authorities of the county.

The public had little, if any, part in yesterday's market, and showed neither confidence or enthusiasm in the market movements. Some stock was undoubtedly bought by traders, but a great deal more was wanted and marked up. Absence of serious liquidation was the day's best feature.

News developments of the day were generally unfavorable, which in itself rather clearly branded the advance in prices as artificial. Foreign markets were apparently actually disturbed by a reported aggravation of the Moroccan incident. Paris appeared to be the weakest market, but both copper and rentes declined. Local news was largely made up of the drastic report on Equitable Life Assurance affairs by State Superintendent Hendricks.

The fact that a basis for criminal charges had been discovered, of which District Attorney Jerome had taken cognizance, the presence of the names of dead men on the salary list, the resignation of additional directors from the company, and the disapproval of the insurance department of the purchase of the company by Mr. Ryan, had a very bad effect on public sentiment. To offset this, according to the street theory, some important interests besmirched by the report, set about bidding up prices. This seemed to be the chief influencing factor in the market.

MORE SALES IN DOWNTOWN WARDS

L. T. Yoder Buys 407-409 Second Avenue for $80,000—Sale of Ferry Street Corner.

BIG PROJECTS IN GLENWOOD

The downtown section of Pittsburgh is contributing the big majority of the deals nowadays, a fact which brokers are at a loss to account for, as this is the season when residence and suburban property is seen at its best. Yesterday two more deals were announced in the business section, the larger being the sale of the former Barach property at 407-409 Second avenue to L. T. Yoder for $80,000, this being the consideration named in the deed. About two months ago James Crosby bought the property from Mr. Marach for about $65,000, and it was then rumored that the purchase was made for a prominent business man. The property consists of two three-story brick houses on 40x69 feet, facing on the north side of the avenue, just above Smithfield street, and opposite the Homeopathic hospital. The sales establishes a new record for prices in this part of the avenue, as $2,000 a front foot is considerably more than has been paid heretofore.

The other downtown deal was the sale of the Wabash hotel property at the northeast corner of First avenue and Ferry street for $45,000. The property belonged to the Henrietta C. Wilkins estate and is known as 101-103 First avenue. The lot is 45x80 feet and the hotel is a three-story brick building which is well rented. The sale is at the rate of $1,286 a front foot, or $16.09 a square foot. It is not known who bought the property, which adjoins the property of Ed. G. Hartje and is diagonally opposite the Hostatter holdings.

Fifty Houses for Glenwood.

The Twenty-third ward is displaying more activity in house building this summer than any other part of the city. Bids will be asked in a few days on 50 more houses there to be erected under the direction of W. S. Haynes of the Diamond Real Estate Company, who has superintended the erection of nearly 200 houses in the Glenwood and Hazelwood districts. Thirty of this lot will be built by E. M. O'Neill, who has already arranged for some 40 houses in the ward this summer. Like his other houses, they will be substantial brick dwellings of two and seven rooms built in rows to be rented. Most of them will be in Greenfield avenue and Lilac street. Plans are now being made ready for 20 more houses which the Glenwood Land Company proposes to build in Renova street. These will be built on separate lots and will be either for sale or rent. The location of all these houses is near the Second avenue line and within easy walking distance of the big mills and the Glenwood shops of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Lawrenceville Options Expired.

The option which was taken several months ago on the C. G. Zug property at Twelfth and Pike streets has been allowed to expire, and it is also intimated that the property of S. Jarvis Adams, near the Zug holdings, is free from an option now. When the original options were taken it was for 30 days, with an extension clause which was taken advantage of by the brokers who were dealing for the property. At the expiration of this second term Mr. Zug withdrew his property and it is now in the open market. It is said that other options which were taken on properties in this neighborhood have also been allowed to lapse. This turn of affairs is significant, as it was thought that the options were taken for the Allegheny Valley Railroad Company, and many rumors were afloat as to the immense improvements in the way of produce warehouses that were to follow the purchases.

The East Pittsburgh and Wilkinsburg Street Railway Company will have to get a new ordinance through the Wilkinsburg councils before it can build its proposed line connecting the two places named above. About two months ago an ordinance was passed giving the company right of way on certain streets of Wilkinsburg providing that a bonus of $10,000 be deposited with the borough treasurer and a large bond died not later than June 18. The bonus was not paid and the bond was not filed, so that the ordinance passed is void. It was the intention of the company to enter Wilkinsburg by way of the Greensburg pike.

Deal Was for Cash.

The Fifth Avenue Methodist Episcopal congregation will receive all of the $150,000 paid for its church property in cash. This was decided at the last meeting of the congregation, when the original agreement to take $50,000 cash and a $100,000 mortgage was thus amended. Many rumors were afloat yesterday as to who bought the property, the concensus of opinion being that it was either Isaac or Jacob Kaufmann. Neither of these gentlemen nor H. M. Favman, who made the sale, would confirm the report last night.

H. H. Willock has bought from McCready & Moore what remains of the old Bradley property in Shadyside for about $55,000. It comprises 1,500x150 feet of frontage on the south side of the Pennsylvania railroad, between Ben Venue and Shadyside stations. In part payment Mr. Willock tendered a large plot of frontage at Shady and Saline avenues, Squirrel Hill, which was valued at $40,000.

A. F. Burgwin has bought from Thomas R. Robinson an improved lot, 70x178 feet, at the southeast corner of Dahlia and Spencer streets, Twentieth ward, for $14,000.

Edward Oldendorf proves to be the buyer of the Andrew G. Campbell property at the northeast corner of Amber street and Friendship avenue, Twentieth ward, the sale of which for $12,000 was mentioned in The Gazette a few days ago. The lot is 40x100 feet and is improved with a modern brick house.

Pushing Work on Fort Pitt.

Work on the Fort Pitt hotel at Penn avenue and Tenth street is progressing rapidly and it will be finished and furnished by September 1. The upper floors are ready for decorating and the marble finish is being put on the first floor rooms. Orders have been placed for the fixtures and furniture for the 400 rooms. One of the best features of the hotel will be an ice plant, which, it is said, will have no equal in the city. The finishing touches on the building are being directed by Charles R. Miller, who has superintended the entire work, and C. A. Blanchard, who will be the manager of the new hostelry.

Bids are being taken by Architect John T. Comes for a Roman Catholic church at Monongahela City and for a large school house for St. George's school at Allentown, Pa.

Beezer Brothers are receiving sub-bids on the $100,000 brick and stone residence which Mrs. Hillman Thaw is building in Fifth avenue, near Beechwood boulevard. The same architects are taking sub-bids on the residence which Mrs. George P. Hallman will build at Woodland road and Wilkins avenue at a cost of $30,000, and on the $65,000 house which W. L. Stewart will build in Irwin avenue, near Wightman street.

Architect F. V. Kerner has plans for a 12-room, center hall brick house to be built for G. W. Dorman in Thomas boulevard, near Lexington avenue, at a cost of $10,000.

A contract was also awarded to the Illuminating Sign company for street corner signs throughout the city at prices ranging from 75 cents to $7.00 each.

HEAVY CUT IN SUGARS COMES UNEXPECTEDLY

Twenty Points Lapped Off the Price on Threat of Foreign Competition.

Contrary to the expectations of all wholesalers the forepart of the week, the sharp advance (they had anticipated in the price of sugar developed into a heavy decline. Twenty points were cut off the price yesterday, and it may even go lower. The sudden drop was due to the threat of foreign sugar growers to enter the American market. There was too great a disparity in the price of raw and refined sugars, and this gave the foreigners a chance for operation. To prevent this the American refiners ordered the cut. It is not believed it will last long, however, as the heavy demand for the article makes an advance seem almost a certainty.

Flour was stronger yesterday on the wheat market returns, but there is considerable shading on present quotations. Coffee is firm as before.

The butter market has gained considerably during the week, although yesterday it was not as firm as the day before. Eggs are beginning to drag, although full quotations are being secured for them.

New apples were added to the market list yesterday. They are selling at $1.25 to $1.50 a bushel, and are as green as apples usually are at this time of the year. Advances in price were the order of the day yesterday, and more are looked for today. Tomatoes have gone up sharply. They will be selling at $1.25 to $1.40 today. Cabbages, green peas, cantaloupes, berries and several other articles in the list advanced sharply yesterday.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 16½ cars, 7½ corn, 8 hay, 3 feed, 1 straw; Baltimore & Ohio, 5 hay, 3 feed, 1 straw; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 1 hay, 1 oats.

Business in grain is good and oats are picked up readily. A better demand was noted for straw. Millfeed remains steady. Receipts of hay are not so heavy, and an improvement in prices is looked for.

MARKET IS FIRM ON CASH WHEAT'S STRENGTH

Prices Rule Strong in Face of Many Bearish Advices—Oats Gain, Corn Unchanged.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 22.—Strength of cash wheat imparted a firm tone today to the trade in future deliveries. At the close July wheat was up 1¾c. Corn is unchanged. Oats show ½@¾c gain. Provisions are unchanged to 5c higher.

The wheat market was an enigma to many traders, ruling strong in the face of commercial bearish advices. Seemingly the only reason that could be given for the strength was the cash situation, cash wheat showing good gains in nearly all markets. For both spring and fall sown wheat the weather conditions today were more favorable than for several weeks. little or no rain having fallen since yesterday. Notwithstanding this fact the market opened firm with July a shade lower to a shade higher, at 88¾c to 89c. Not much wheat was offered for sale, and with an active demand from commission houses prices quickly advanced. The upturn was more remarkable in view of the bearish reports received concerning the harvesting of the new crop, advices claiming an excellent yield with quality good. For July the highest point of the day was reached at 90¾c. The more distant deliveries showed a more moderate advance. During the last half hour much of the gain was lost on liberal realizing. The market, however, closed firm with July at 90@90¼c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 73,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 251,000 bushels, compared with 232,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 136 cars, against 175 cars last week and 153 cars a year ago.

Sentiment in the corn pit early in the session was quite bearish on prospects of a liberal movement in the near future. A prominent long was an active seller and this had considerable influence with pit traders. Later the market became quite firm partly in sympathy with the strength of wheat, and partly as a result of reports claiming light movements in the country of bids sent out by cash houses. The market closed firm with prices near the highest point. July opened 50c lower, at 46c, sold up to 48½@48¾c, and closed at 48¼c. Local receipts were 434 cars with 11% of contract grade. Active demand from several prominent commission houses caused a strong tone in the oats market. Strength of wheat was an important factor. July opened 3c lower at 31¼c, sold up to 33c and closed at 31½@32c. Local receipts were 123 cars.

An advance of 5 cents in the price of live hogs had a strengthening influence on the provisions market. The volume of business was small. At the close September pork was up 7½c, at $12 80. Lard was unchanged at $7 42½. Ribs were up 2½@5c, at $7 77½. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 1 car; corn, 447 cars; oats, 96 cars, hogs, 26,000 head.

G. T. BARNSLEY IS CHIEF ENGINEER

Able and Popular Pittsburgher Promoted to Responsible Position With Wabash.

BIG CAR SERVICE MEETING

George T. Barnsley has been advanced from resident engineer of the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal railway to chief engineer of the Wabash system's lines east of Toledo, including the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal railway and the West Side Belt railroad. Official circulars to that effect were issued yesterday from the office of First Vice President B. A. Worthington, to whom Mr. Barnsley will report. The appointment was effective June 15. Mr. Worthington accompanied by Chief Engineer Barnsley, General Manager Robert Blickensderfer, Freight Traffic Manager W. D. Holliday, Superintendent H. W. McMaster and Engineer Maintenance of Way A. C. Hezlep, returned from an examination of the lines east of Toledo late Wednesday night. This was Mr. Barnsley's first trip in an official capacity over the entire system east of Toledo.

Mr. Barnsley, through his ability and affability, has in the past two years become one of the most popular civil engineers in Pittsburgh, and through his being in direct charge of the Wabash terminal work in Pittsburgh has become known more widely throughout the engineering world. His work for the Wabash included, in addition to the terminal line and passenger station, the monster cantilever bridge over the Monongahela river in Pittsburgh. From all over the world eminent engineers have visited the bridge and have pronounced its construction a daring feat. The new chief engineer received a thorough training for the work. He was born in Montgomery county, Pa., and was graduated from the engineering department of Swarthmore college. His first work was with the Norfolk & Western railway, with which road he remained six years. For a few years he was engaged in construction and engineering work on various roads, including the Pennsylvania railroad. It was five years ago that he came to Pittsburgh. His ability has been manifest in everything that he has been given to do. He is recognized as a man who can and does do hard work himself, as well as direct others to doing efficient work. He has a charming home in Oakmont where he delights to be in leisure moments with his wife, who was Miss Susan G. Jones of Washington, D. C., and with George, Jr.

GEORGE THOMAS BARNSLEY,

Mr. Barnsley is recognized as a whole-souled, energetic genial associate, and this is the basis of his popularity among the men high in his profession, as well as all others who know him. He is prominently identified with the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Society of Testing Materials, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Forestry Association, Franklin Institute, Pennsylvania Forestry Association, Art Society of Pittsburgh, Engineers' Club of Philadelphia, Railway Club of Pittsburgh, Oakmont Boat Club and the Engineers' Society of Pennsylvania. His many friends will be gratified to learn of his promotion to the responsible office.

No Action on Per Diem.

There was no definite action taken at the second annual meeting of the Association of Transportation and Car Accounting Officers at Toronto Tuesday and Wednesday. N. K. Hoffman, superintendent car service of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, the only Pittsburgh official in attendance, returned home yesterday morning. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad was elected a member of the committee on office methods and accounting. The subjects of the committee on car service were adopted, the topics being: Loading of cars to their full capacity; what is a reasonable time for a car to be accepted without question on roads' home; handling mixed loads; the use of end way bills for cars of passenger equipment in other than regular service. Four subjects of the committee on office methods and accounting, which were also adopted, were: Duplication of initials and numbers in marking of freight equipment; tracing car-load shipments; best method of protecting interests concerned where two roads have access to industry tracks; average miles per car per day. The topic of errors on injunction reports was referred back to the committee.

H. L. Hunter of the M., St. P. & S. S. M. railway was elected president; D. E. Spangler of the N. & W. railway, first vice president; T. S. Bell of the Pennsylvania railroad, second vice president, and G. P. Conrad and F. M. Lines were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

Pennsylvania Improvements.

The engineering department of the Pennsylvania lines west, through the office of Chief Engineer Maintenance of Way W. C. Cushing of the southwest system, has awarded to Hoover & Kinnear of Columbus the contract for building a new roadway for six miles of the Indianapolis division between Piqua and Bradford, O. The new line will require considerable grading and excavating and will cost about $400,000. It will reduce a large curve and will take out a heavy dip at Covington, O., midway between Piqua Summit, three miles east, and Bradford, two and summit, nine miles west. A stone-arch bridge will be built over the Stillwater river. The old line will be abandoned except for reaching the sidings at Covington from the east. A new passenger and freight station will be built at street level for the new elevated line through that town.

Bids have been asked by the Pennsylvania railroad's engineering department for grading and masonry for track-laying for a new four-track line between the east end of Donohoe tunnel and Beaty station and for similar work in completing the four-track road between Smithwick junction and the west end of Donohoe tunnel. The two new stretches of four-track road will require 74,700 lineal feet of track-laying and about 1,100,000 cubic yards of excavation.

New Train to Wheeling.

Announcement was made yesterday by the passenger department of the Pennsylvania lines west that a new train, to be known as the Wheeling Sunday special, will be installed by the company next Sunday to accommodate the heavy Sunday travel to the Nail City. These popular-priced excursions are being well patronized. The new train will leave Pittsburgh at 7 o'clock a. m., central time, and without a stop en route will reach Wheeling at 9 o'clock. Returning, the train will leave Wheeling at 6:30 o'clock in the evening and will reach Pittsburgh at 8:35. This train will be operated in addition to the other Sunday Wheeling trains, which will be run as heretofore.

Railroad Notes.

Joseph Giltings, city passenger agent of the Rock Island-Frisco system, is enjoying a vacation of two weeks at Raleigh, N. C.

Conductor William Lanham of the Union station terminal has returned to duty after nursing a badly sprained ankle for a couple of weeks.

The local B. & O. officials left for Deer Park, Md., last evening to be present at the B. & O. family gathering today and perhaps tomorrow.

The Wabash will run a special train from here to Wheeling today to carry 600 members of the Independent Mutual Aid association of Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania railroad has issued orders to the Union News Company to eliminate all trashy novels and literature from the newsstands at stations and from the newsboys' supply on the trains.

AT HIGH TENSION OVER MOROCCO

Populace of France and Germany Excited by Diplomatic Negotiations.

FRENCH NOTE REACHES BERLIN

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BERLIN, June 22.—France's answer to the German note on the Morocco question has not yet reached the foreign office. The office only knows the contents through press reports, and maintains complete silence concerning the situation as left by France's answer. The impression made here is that the answer does not promote an understanding between France and Germany, but the foreign office here does not abandon the hope of an adjustment of the differences in a manner satisfactory to Germany.

PARIS, June 22.—Official circles here observe the outward appearance of entire tranquility over the France-German negotiations, but an undercurrent of considerable anxiety prevails relative to Germany's answer to the French note. This is somewhat intensified by publications purporting to give Germany's intention to insist that the Moroccan conference be not trammelled by specific limitations upon its scope.

Nothing, however, has yet been received from official sources indicating that such is the purpose of Germany, and Premier Rouvier's associates maintain that as his note is couched in a calm, conciliatory tone there is reason to expect that Germany will answer him in a similar spirit of conciliation. However, a considerable element in parliamentary circles shows much solicitude regarding the outcome of the negotiations.

Reports from the frontier continue to show marked military activity and a feeling of unrest among the people living along the border. The influential press, evidently in accordance with the wishes of the government, refrains from discussing the military aspect, asserting that the negotiations, while in a delicate stage, continue normal.

BAD BLOOD CAUSES

ANKLES AND LEGS TO SWELL UNTIL MAN CAN SCARCELY WALK.

Mr. Hoar Suffers for Six Months Before He Finds the Simple Treatment Which Restores Use of His Limbs.

"People can cure themselves of a good many common ailments at a very small cost if they go about it in the right way," said Mr. Hoar, recently. "For instance, I have just cured myself of a very annoying trouble. I might have begun to treat it sooner, that's all the mistake I made in the matter. But I found the root of the difficulty and I picked out the right remedy without the aid of a doctor."

"What was the matter with you?"

"It was really all in my blood. I first felt a twinge in my left foot and ankle in the middle of last January, following exposure to cold. I realized I had a little rheumatism and I knew that really comes from bad blood. Cold simply develops it. Then my hands and feet were cold and clammy even in hot weather, and numb a great part of the time. I concluded that my blood was thin and poor and the circulation sluggish."

"Did you do something right away to improve your blood?"

"No. As long as I could get about all right I was careless. But finally my feet and ankles swelled so badly that I could only tie my shoes half way up. After that my legs swelled terribly, until I could walk only a short distance before giving out completely, and it caused me a great deal of discomfort to walk at all. Then I felt something had to be done at once."

"What did you do?"

"It was getting on towards July this, and I saw that my blood had been getting poorer and poorer for six months. I looked around for the best blood remedy that could be found. When I read of the cures of all kinds of blood diseases that had been effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I was convinced that they were just the remedy for my case, and so it proved. I could see that they were benefiting me before I had quite used up the first box. The improvement was decidedly marked after I had taken two boxes. Three more boxes restored my hands and feet and legs to natural color and feeling and then I stopped taking medicine and have since been perfectly well."

Mr. F. Le Roy Hoar lives at No. 182 Constitution street, Bristol, R. I. Any one can readily tell for himself when his blood is thin, by the pallor of his skin, the bloodlessness of the lips and gums particularly, and he can be certain that his blood is impure when the limbs swell and rheumatic aches are felt.

Anyone can get convincing evidence that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured anaemia, rheumatism, erysipelas and other serious diseases of the blood by simply writing to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Every druggist sells these famous pills and knows that they deserve their great reputation as makers of pure rich blood.
